HIS INTEREST IN OUR CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION.

ROME, March 31, 1875.

Rome has become a sad disappointment for Easter pilgrims. The good people have prolonged their stay in Rome until after Holy Week, expecting to see something of the ancient Easter ceremonies to reward them for the penance the pious of them undergo. But Pope Pius IX. still withdraws his presence from the great public, and only celebrates mass now and then in the Sistine chapel and gives his customary audiences. The processions to St. Peter's, the consecration of the palms by the Pope, are of the past, and Easter Sunday passes over us like any commonplace Sabbath. The many beautiful ceremonies that usually fell on this day, the bearing of His Holiness on his throne into St. Peter's, before him borne the two fans of ostrich feathers, on his head the triple crown, symbolical of the temporal and the spiritual dominion and the unity of the two, are seen no more. Neither the bells of St. Peter nor the artillery of St. Angelo raise their chorus at the final celebration of the resurrection. Victor Emmanuel now runs the "girandola" or fireworks which formerly took place from the Castle of St. Angelo and later from Monte Pincio. The Pontifical blessing of the crowd from the balcony of St. Peter's is withheld, and will be, of course, so long as Rome is occupied by the Italian government, or until a reconciliation is brought about with the new election.

THE LOST POETRY OF EASTER.

Rome has lost all its Easter poetry to the visitor. It is now a place simply for religious penance, not of rejoicing and exultation. The pictures of Rome by Victor Scheffel are no longer applicable, though pleasant and interesting to read. True, he describes the Rome of some ages past; but his descriptions held good till the present decade, when the temporal dominion was taken away from the head of the Church. Now old Father Tiber has no cause for excitement about the vastness of the crowds hurrying over the bridge of St. Angelo:—

Through the narrow streets a human
Throng in festal garb and spirit,
Hastened to the Vatican:
On St. Angelo there scarce was
Room to pass, and elbowing on came
Dark Signori in their Spanish
Mantles, and perruque and rapier,
With the dark Franciscan paters
Came the brown-garbed Capuchines—then
Roman burghers—here and there a
Sunburnt herdsman from the neighboring
Drear Campagna, and he felt an
Antique pride in all his tatters;
And among these, stepping lightly,
Came the dark-eyed Roman maidens
Deeply veiled, but still the ganze could
Not conceal their fiery glancing—
Oh, what are the glowing sunbeams
E'en when caught by cunning master
In the burning glass compared with
These bright eyes of Roma's daughters?
Poor scathed heart, on stop thy beating!
Gayly on the breeze there flatter'd
On St. Hadrian's tomb the standards
With the Papal See's insignia—
Mitre and the two big cross keys—
On St. Peter's square the fountains
Sprang and foamed in rainbow colors,
Splashing o'er the granite basins.

TEMPORA MUTANTUR.

The throng that gathered in St. Peter's on Easter Sunday morning was small, and composed chiefly of undevout tourists and English clergymen, who said that even the beautiful singing of the papal "Kapelle" was "operatic." How they flutter around Rome, these tight-throated gentry of the Gospel, imbibing very gradually the charms that finally hold them bound! And the new Cardinal hopes to get them all over the fence eventually, and to all appearances he will get many. Scheffel describes an Easter procession of the past with pleasant strokes. The two German lady pilgrims of his "Bugler" have come to the church and entered

Great St. Peter's holy precincts,
And, astonished, gazed upon the
Grandeur of the wondrous church, where
Mortals look such puny creatures.
In the central aisle the statue
Of St. Peter stood, and many
Pilgrims kissed the foot, adoring.
Music swept throughout the aisles, and
Through the side door that doth lead one
From the Papal palace came the Holy Father, holding solemn
Entry into the Cathedral.
Stalwart Schweizer halberdiers,
Marching, headed the procession,
And then followed the renowned
Singers of the Papal chapel.
Panting 'neath their heavy burdens
Came the choir boys, bearing with them
Ponderous folio books of music.
Followed violet Monsignori!
Then the abbots and the prelates,
And the canon of St. Peter's,
Panting with his weight of body.
Tottering on his staff then came the
General of the Capucines—a
Burden of full ninety years did
Rest upon his aged shoulders,
Though he still bore many a youthful,
Daring plan beneath his skull-cap.
With Franciscan paters from the Convent Ara Coeli came the
Prior from Palazzuola—
Looking down on Lake Albana,
'Mid the shady woods that clothe the
Sides of Monte Cavo, stands the Pleasant convent where the heart may
Dream unharmed its playful fancies.
As in thought he followed with the
Rich procession, and who knows why
E'en his murmers did not sound like
Prayers—but more as if he mutter'd:—
Fare thee well, Palazzuola.
Followed, then, the train elected—
Cardinals in purple raiment;
Then a train of cavaliers; with
Glittering swords, they marched in rank and File. These were the Guard of Nobles.
And the Pope himself approached.
Seated on the throne in state the
Servants, eight, did bear him onward.
O'er his head the pages held the
Brilliant fan of peacock's feathers.
Snow-white was his linen fête dress;
And he raised his hand to bless the
People, who bent low before him.
And St. Peter's fisher's ring blazed
Brightly in the glowing sunshine.
Soon the long procession halted
At the altar, and the Pontiff
Held high mass and solemn o'er the Grave of the Apostle Peter.
Sweetly then the chant resounded,
And the aged princess-abbess
Prayed in pious, calm devotion.
But fair Margaretha raised her
Eyes—she thought the music sounded
Like angelic strains—she wished to
Turn her gaze and thoughts, too, heavenward;
But her eye was first attracted
To the singers' loge; she trembled,
For amid the singers stood a
Stately man with hair of blond, though
Still half hid by marble pillars.
And again she glanced toward him,
Looked no more then toward the Pontiff,
Nor the red-robed cardinals, nor
At the nine-and-eighty lamps that Hang above St. Peter's tomb.
"Dreams long gone, why now return ye?
Dreams long gone, why do ye greet me
Here in these most sacred precincts?"
Then the singers in procession
Fill'd by where the two were seated.
"Lord be gracious! He it is. Oh,
I know well the scar upon his
Brow. It is my long lost Werner!"
Margaretha's eyes grew misty—
"Heart, why beatest thou so wildly?"
And her limbs gave way beneath her—
Fainting sank the fair young maiden
On the cold hard floor of marble.

THE SWISS GUARD OF POETRY.

But stay. I did not intend to give you a love story—only a few poetical descriptions of St. Peter's, which I believe will be new to you, and love stories, even from Rome, are not. I commenced this letter with the intention of giving you some account of my audience with the Pope and my reception by Cardinal Antonelli, but Victor Scheffel has led me astray. I will, nevertheless, not resist the temptation of giving you the poet's description of the Swiss Guard, who give you greeting as you enter the palace of the Popes:—

In the Vatican's broad hallway,
'Neath the mighty colonnades, the
Halberdiers of Swissland paced,
Holding guard, as 'tis their duty;
And their heavy steps resounded
Far away up to the palace.
To the gray-haired corporal spake a
Youthful "lanceknecht," and lamented:
"Fine we are, 'tis true, we Schweizers,
And no other soldier marches
Through the streets of Rome so proudly,
Clad in handsome steel cuirasses
And in garb of black-red-yellow.
Many a fiery glance is sent us
Shyly from the palace windows:
But the heart o'er fondly yearneth
Homeward, homeward, to the mountains,
To the Alp horn's gentle calling.
Gladly I would all relinquish—
Trinkgeld, pay, the silver scudi,
E'en the Holy Father's blessing,
E'en the wine of Orvieto
That so sweetly pearls and sparkles,
Could I see once more Mount Pilate,
See the rocks and avalanches;
And as hunter chase the chamois
O'er its high and dangerous pathways,
Or could wander in the moonlight,
O'er the fragrant Alpine meadows,
To the Alm-hut's pleasant greeting,
To the Tennin, to the pretty
Appenzellian Cunigundas,
And then jodeln, loud exulting
To the rising sun of morning.
Oh, St. Peter's, all thy glories
And thy grand old sacred music,
I should soon forget if I could
Hear the shrill and hollow piping
Of our native Alpine marmot.

Still we may doubt very much whether the Swiss Guard have so deep this feeling of Heimweh as the poet describes. The Roman maidens have wonderful black glowing eyes, that would win the hearts of even colder men than these same honest guardians of the Vatican. I wish Victor Scheffel had given us as well a poetical description of the Noble Guards, one of whom will be with you before this letter reaches its destination, instead of which I have only an amusing story from the Vatican.

COUNT MARREFORCHI, THE NOBLE GUARD,

who is now on his way to New York, accompanying Mgr. Roncetti with Cardinal McCloskey's berretta, is a young man not yet thirty, but with an unconquerable tendency to obesity. Some wicked monsignore in the Vatican, with a gift for making caricatures, has represented the ship on which the Ablegate and the Noble Guard are making the journey, as in a sinking condition. Count Marefoschi has thrown himself overboard in his despair, but the waters refuse to swallow him; they bear up his body triumphantly, knowing the precious message he bears from Rome. And Mgr. Roncetti, bearing aloft the berretta, has found safety in sitting astride the body of his floating companion in the ocean. This is a private caricature, and only circulates in the Vatican in a single copy, which quite accidentally fell in my way. I trust, however, no such misfortune as that depicted will befall the worthy Count and Monsignore. The former is a most agreeable gentleman, and will win esteem and hearts, being, I believe, still unmarried and not under any vows of celibacy.

AN AUDIENCE AT THE VATICAN—HIS HOLINESS GRANTS THE PRIVILEGE OF AN INTERVIEW TO A HERALD CORRESPONDENT—HIS LOVE AND ADMIRATION FOR CARDINAL M'CLOSKEY—CONVERSATION WITH CARDINAL ANTONELLI—THE GARDENS OF THE VATICAN.

ROME, April 1, 1875.

It is not such an easy thing nowadays to procure an audience at the Vatican. His Holiness the Pope suffers considerably; he is not at all strong, and the rectors of the various colleges and other persons who have the permission to procure audiences now present only a very limited number of persons. And this is well: those that really have an earnest desire for an audience are not refused, while those who wish to go simply to gratify curiosity are, for the most part, excluded. Nevertheless, day after day the long audience room is crowded with people of all tongues, and among them are usually a good number of English and a few Americans. Some very wicked people assert that some of our worthy countrymen have not conducted themselves with the necessary amount of grace; have indeed committed great breaches of etiquette; have refused to bend the knee when His Holiness deigned to address them and to give them his benediction, and have, thereby, caused no little discomfort and mortification to the persons who presented them. But I am assured this is not so, and am told that very frequently persons of another nationality are mistaken for Americans, upon whom all the unpleasantness has to rest. The Pope likes to see Americans, no matter of what faith, and I think there are few of us who go to see him who are not willing, even if we are not his spiritual subjects, to submit to the etiquette prescribed by the rules of the Papal Court.

APPLYING FOR AUDIENCES.

There are few Catholic Americans visiting Rome who omit to make the pilgrimage to the Vatican. As a rule they apply to Dr. Chatard, the rector of the American College, who, although his time is, as we may well suppose, pretty well occupied with the duties connected with the institution over which he has charge, is always ready to assist those who apply to him. I owe him a thousand thanks. On all occasions he has kindly imparted to me his time and his knowledge, as he does to so many. Through him I was granted, on Wednesday last, a semi-private audience with the Holy Father, to which I have the intention to devote this letter. My wish in applying for an audience was not for the sake of procuring what is generally styled an interview, but to thank His Holiness in person for the favor shown to the HERALD a few weeks ago in furnishing you with an advance copy of his Allocution containing the nomination of the new cardinals. Not only did His Holiness show on that occasion a peculiar mark of his appreciation of America, but a deep interest in the workings of a great American journal. It was the first favor of the sort ever granted by His Holiness to any journal not strictly religious, though, to tell the truth, a halo of pious glory has gathered about the HERALD, its proprietor and its representatives ever since the difficulty you had with Prince Bismarck in Berlin, about which nearly every ecclesiastic to whom I spoke had heard.

THE AUDIENCE.

The general audiences at the Vatican are of various classes—public, semi-public or semi-private and private. The former are given in one of the long loggie, the second in the hall of the Arazzi, immediately adjoining the Throne Room. The latter is His Holiness' private studio. The great public collects in the loggia, while the members of nobility, distinguished persons and clericals, assemble in the room next to the Hall of the Throne. To the latter group the Holy Father gives a proportionately larger share of his time. He stops to talk familiarly with the persons presented and listens patiently to all that is said to him. Then he passes slowly, followed by chamberlains and cardinals and Noble Guards, on through various rooms to the long audience room, where he usually delivers a brief address. It was my fortune to have a place among the more favored individuals assembled in the half adjoining the Hall of the Throne, among members of the Italian aristocracy, in plain dress suits, and a few young brothers of the Order of St. Cammillus of Lellis. A slight commotion in the Throne Room announced that His Holiness had left his private apartment. First appeared two of the Noble Guard in undress uniform, then monsignori and cardinals, and in their midst the Holy Father, all forming a group of harmonious colors—robes of red and dark purple and black, and in the midst the white robe of the head of the Catholic Church. The personages nearest the Pope were Cardinals Patrizi and Meriel, while Mgrs. Pacca and Cavaletti came in advance, the former to receive the permessos in readiness to announce the names of the kneelers to His Holiness.

HIS HOLINESS THE POPE.

Holding in his right hand and resting heavily upon a handsome walking stick, the Pope approached the group of earnest young priests who had consecrated themselves to the work of mercy of attending the sick in the hospitals. The Holy Father's features brightened as he received their customary salutation. He spoke a few words to each and then placed his hand upon the head of each in his kind, fatherly manner, evincing in a striking manner the paternal feeling he entertains toward all who consecrate themselves to works of charity and human welfare. I had time to observe the Holy Father's features and general appearance before he approached me. I noticed that he walked heavily, shufflingly, as old men do who have passed threescore years and ten; and, though I could see traces of the early nobility of carriage and happy, bright dignity of feature, yet the form before me was no longer that of a few years ago. The firm contour of face has been lost; the features seem to hang heavily down, and the old, bright, penetrating eye is dimmed and weakened. There is no concealing the ravages that old age and trouble and conflicts and disease have wrought upon this once noble figure. I would indeed gladly believe that His Holiness has yet ten years of life and usefulness before him, that he may yet live to see the final victory of the Catholic Church over her enemies; but I cannot. Pope Pius IX. is but a wreck of his former self, but a magnificent wreck nevertheless. I would be unjust to myself were I to describe him not according to the impression left upon me in my brief interview. Some day, and in all probability not long hence, Pope Pius IX. will take to his bed never more to rise from it again. But God grant that day may be still far away.

WORDS OF THE PONTIFF.

His Holiness approached the prelate by my side, who introduced me, and who, after the usual ceremonies, had the kindness to inform the Holy Father of my name and my duties in Rome.

The Pontiff gave me his right hand, which I saluted, as is etiquette. My companion then recalled to the memory of His Holiness the fact of his having sent to the HERALD his Allocution on the evening before the delivery in the Consistory.

"Yes," said His Holiness, "I was pleased to know, by the desire shown to have it, that so great an interest existed in your country about it."

The Holy Father wished that the great journal would make it known how rejoiced he was to hear of the pleasure that had been given to so many Americans in the creation of the new Cardinal.

He said that he had already received thanks from many prominent American Catholics in Rome, and the many messages of this nature were very gratifying to him, especially now, amid the troubles and persecution of the Church in Europe.

"But," said the Holy Father, "why are you, too, not in New York in order to describe the festivities that are about to take place there?"

I ventured to say that there were a score of more capable persons than myself there who would do that; besides, my presence was needed in Rome, which had still great interest for the people of America.

His Holiness paused a moment, and then spoke of the Ablegate and the Noble Guard who had been despatched with the official notification and the berretta to America.

"How many days," he said, "does it take for them to cross the ocean? I shall be glad to hear when they have arrived safely at their destination."

I replied, "From ten to fourteen days, Holy Father, depending on the state of the winds."

"Ah, fourteen days!" Then, as if his mind had wandered for a moment across to New York, he said:—"I told one of your countrymen, a few days ago, that

YOUR ARCHBISHOP IS A NOBLE AND WORTHY MAN.

He has the dignity of a prince and makes a great impression upon everybody when he comes here. This you may tell your people, and let them know that our thoughts are often with them."

THE BENEDICTION AND ADDRESS.

With these words His Holiness gave me his hand for the customary salute, and then he passed to the group of Italian nobles kneeling beside me, each of whom had some slight favor or other to ask, such as the blessing of mementoes and relics. After each person had been addressed His Holiness gave the customary benediction, and we rose from our knees to follow the group of cardinals and monsignori and His Holiness through the antercoms to the long loggia, where some two hundred persons were awaiting the general audience. I need not give you any long account of these audiences, since they have been so frequently described in the HERALD and in the religious journals of the United States. The Holy Father, still wearing a red cloak over his white garb, passed through the entrance to the loggia. The people fell upon their knees as the Pontiff approached, rising only after he had passed them. The entire audience occupied perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes, when one of the attendant monsignori removed the red cloak, and the venerable man stood in the midst of the room clad in the long, graceful, snow-white vestment. Then the entire audience knelt, and the Holy Father addressed them in

EARNEST, ELOQUENT LANGUAGE.

Pope Pius IX. is a good orator, and loves to make these addresses to the people who come to pay him homage. He speaks in French fluently, though his voice has lost much of its ancient clearness. He took for his text the words of the Gospel referring to the Saviour and the disciples at Emmaus, and spoke about the necessity of our having fortitude and asking assistance of Almighty God in our need. It was a simple, moral and instructive sermon which His Holiness delivered to his hearers, without any reference to politics or the present condition of the Catholic Church in the various parts of Europe.

The address over, the benediction over, the red mantle was replaced, and the audience was over. His Holiness then proceeded further along one of the corridors for his usual morning's walk, which in fine weather usually ends in the Vatican gardens.

THE POPE AND AMERICA.

The Holy Father is said to refer very frequently to the United States, and to entertain great hope for the future of the Catholic Church there. The Voce della Verita recorded not many days ago some account of the relations that had existed between Pope Pius IX. and the people of the United States. This is what Mgr. Nardi, the writer of the article referred to, says:—

On the 29th of November, 1847, the compatriots of Washington and of Franklin assembled in great numbers in New York and subscribed their names to an address of homage and admiration to the present Pope, then hardly seated on the throne of St. Peter. And as His Holiness (continues the Voce della Verita) commenced his religious career in America (of course Mgr. Nardi mixes up South America and the United States, like all his countrymen), so he has preserved in his heart a special affection for that young and noble nation.

Mgr. Nardi then goes on to note what His Holiness has done for the American College in Rome. He established the college in the Via dell' Umilta, and presented it, with the restored church, in order that these young American theologians should receive their education. The present college was solemnly inaugurated on the 7th of December, 1859—the eve of the Immaculate Conception—the patron of the Church of the United States. A Latin inscription over the door of the college records the fact of the Pontiff's beneficence. After devoting a passage to the South American College Mgr. Nardi proceeds to tell how His Holiness looked upon the slaughter of the civil war.

On the 18th of October, 1862, he wrote an affectionate letter to Archbishop Hughes, asking him to employ all the means at his command in order to bring about a reconciliation of the conflicting sections.

"REPRESENT ALSO IN OUR NAME,"

he said, "to the people and to the chief of the government the great advantages that would result from a sincere reconciliation. I trust that they will listen to our paternal admonitions, and listen to us the more willingly when they understand that we are not moved by political or any other temporal considerations, but that the motive of our conduct is only fatherly charity, which makes us desire that they should return to peace." On the 17th of November, 1863, two Commissioners were sent by Jefferson Davis to Rome, with the mission of asking for the intercession of His Holiness. Mgr. Nardi says that nothing came out of this mission, because President Lincoln "did not at the same time send an ambassador to invoke his mediation." And now the honor conferred upon New York city in the creation of the new Cardinal puts the crown upon the favors which Pope Pius IX. has shown to America.

"Perhaps Almighty God," concludes the Monsignore, "is preparing in the Catholic Church of North America a large compensation for the griefs and the losses which it is suffering in Europe and in that unfortunate America of the South."

AUDIENCE WITH CARDINAL ANTONELLI.

The audiences over, I then ascended to the next story above, intending to pay my respects to His Eminence Cardinal Antonelli, who had expressed his willingness and pleasure to receive a representative of the HERALD, though the times would prevent him discussing any of the politico-religious questions that are at present agitating the entire civilized world. After waiting a few moments in the anteroom I was ushered into the Cardinal's presence. He rose from his secretaire, and after the usual greetings motioned me to take a seat beside him on the sofa. I hardly recognized His Eminence. Two years ago I saw him in the same room, when he appeared in the best of health, and his features had, as near as I remember, a pleasant, ruddy glow about them. The two years that have since then elapsed have worked a sad, marked

CHANGE IN HIS APPEARANCE.

He is now apparently a great sufferer from rheumatic affliction. His once strong frame is bent, and his features, pale and weary, seem to show a degree of complete physical exhaustion that almost startled me. I heard afterwards that His Eminence is suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that he lives under the strictest and severest regimen. Yet he allows himself no rest and but little recreation, but is continually occupied with the affairs of the Church. For weeks together he never leaves his apartments, and then when he does it is only for a short walk in the Vatican gardens. Before 1870 he possessed a beautiful villa in the suburbs of Rome, where every afternoon he spent some hours on the flat roof caring for flowers and shrubs and enjoying the beautiful view and the health-giving breezes. But the villa was appropriated by the government, and he has since then kept an almost prisonlike retirement in the Vatican. Of the two most prominent persons in the Vatican, His Holiness the Pope and Cardinal Antonelli, the latter seems even the more emaciated and weary.

MY CONVERSATION WITH CARDINAL ANTONELLI

was confined to topics of purely general interest. He spoke of the Philadelphia Exposition, of which some pamphlets had been forwarded to him from America. He spoke of the interest which he had heard had been caused in the United States by the creation of the new Cardinal, and said he should take great pleasure in reading the accounts of the excitement and ceremonies that would be recorded in the New York journals. He made some inquiries respecting the working of the great American journals and more especially about the HERALD. He recalled my former visit two years ago and, smiling, thought my presence in Rome was not the most auspicious for he Vatican.

"You came last time," he said, "fearing that you would have to record the death of His Holiness; but he lives still, in spite of you all."

I said that it was, indeed, a great pleasure for me to visit Rome, but a still greater one to leave the city without having undergone the labor and excitement that would be a correspondent's share in case of the death of His Holiness and the new election. I said that I hoped to come to Rome on many more unfruitful missions of the same kind as the one of two years ago.

"And when you come," he said, "do not forget the way to my apartments here."

THE WATER SUPPLY.

Wishing to procure a ticket of admission for viewing the Vatican gardens, which have been for years closed to the public, the Cardinal told me a very interesting fact. Some weeks ago a communal councillor of Rome, with an eye for filling up the city treasury, had called the attention of the body to which he belonged to the fact that a vast quantity of water was being supplied from the public aqueducts to the Vatican, for which no revenue was received. An excited discussion took place, and, strange to say, the majority of the speakers demanded that the Vatican should be charged for its water supply like "any other institution." One went so far as to demand that the water supply should be cut off in case the Vatican refused to pay.

A VERY UNGRACIOUS THREAT,

when we take into account the fact that the Vatican had not been asked to do so. Even the most democratic paper of Rome, the Capitale, could not conceal its disgust and anger at this instance of narrow-mindedness shown by the wise fathers of the Capitol, and, after calling to mind the fact of the many great benefits which had been at one time conferred upon Rome by the pontiffs while they enjoyed their temporal sovereignty, the aqueducts which they themselves had repaired, the many public fountains they had created, the many works of art with which they had enriched the Eternal City, asked if it were not an insult to the people of Rome and of Italy to thus make demands for a paltry tax on water supply on the Vatican when so many other sources of revenue were left uncultivated. It is very probable that the Vatican will, indeed, pay the tax whenever it is demanded, and in so doing will evince a far more elevated spirit than have the shopkeeping city fathers in raising the question. Legally, of course, the city is entitled to collect the tax; but I think there does not exist any other communal body in the world which would—living among the many and beautiful works of art created by the Papacy—demean itself to send in the tax gatherer to collect such miserable claims.

L'EAU DES ABEILLES.

Cardinal Antonelli did not make any comments on the conduct of the wise men of the Capitolian Hill, but simply called my attention to the fact that in the courtyard of the Belvedere portion of the Vatican there issued forth a spring of delicious water called the "Eau des Abeilles," a supply of which was pumped to the uppermost story of the palace and furnished its inhabitants with all the water for drinking purposes in profuse quantities. "So," said he, "if, as is threatened, our water supply should be cut off we shall not be left to die of thirst." We spoke of minor matters and, among other things, the fact that Cardinal McCloskey was preconized before an answer had been received from the Archbishop saying that he accepted the dignity. The answer came two days after the preconization on the 17th of March. The first notification was only despatched from Rome on the 24th of February, and thus no time was allowed for the answer to return before the meeting of the Consistory. This is all I remember.

The Cardinal then kindly gave me the necessary permesso to visit the Vatican gardens, of which I made use the following morning. Perhaps in some future letter I may give some account of this large and interesting garden, which may be called the prison garden of the Pope. It is a place full of lawns and fountains and leafy archways, and long shady walks under aged trees and amid relics of ancient sculpture. But of all the objects to be seen in the garden the most interesting to me was the aviary, with the beautiful snow white doves, which coo and make love to each other, and are great pets of the Holy Father.

THE VATICAN GARDEN FROM A POETICAL POINT OF VIEW.

The visit and scene reminded me of Victor Scheffel's description, which I translate:—

Over Rome the sun did rise with
More than ordinary splendor;
Coolingly the Tramontana
Fann'd the cypress trees and myrtles
In the Papal Palace garden,
And the flowers rais'd their sunburnt
Heads again in joyous fragrance.
Fountains play'd, the birds were singing;
E'en the pale white marble statues
Seem'd to be with life pulsating;
And the satyr with the flute did
Raise his foot, as if he wished to
Dance about the glorious garden.
Warningly then spake Apollo:—
"Friend, those times are long gone by, and Then wouldst but raise now a scandal!"
And Old Rome, across the river,
Bathed in happy, glowing sunshine,
Sent to the Vatican saintings.
O'er the sea of houses, courses
And the many princely dwellings
Proudly rose the Quirinal, and
Further back the Capitoline
Hill rose up in morning freshness,
Violet haze spread all about it.

THE MODERN RIDDLE.

Seventy-third Day of the Wonderful Scandal Suit.

MR. BEECHER'S LAST DAY

The Witness Rejoiced at His Release.

A QUESTION OF LIFE INSURANCE.

"A Strong Spiritual Presentiment that I Was Near the Borders."

FLUSHING A PARTRIDGE.

Following Up Bowen's Check to Tilton for $7,000.

"Spoils from New Friends for the Enrichment of Old."

The cross-examination of Mr. Beecher terminated yesterday at half-past twelve o'clock, to the evident great joy of Mr. Beecher himself and the Court and jury. In rather a pleasant frame of mind Mr. Fullerton sat down after his long and exhausting effort. Quite a stir took place in the court room and several persons stood up and left as if the main attraction of the performance was at an end. Fullerton did not exert himself with anything like his accustomed energy. He seemed to feel that he had accomplished his task and that the few remaining questions necessary to be put to the witness were of a purely formal character.

Mr. Beecher had evidently no idea the cross-examination was to terminate so abruptly. He was red and unhappy, and his answers had at times a tone of anger that showed he was restive and embarrassed. He left the stand flushed and free, and in his every motion indicated that he felt relieved from some terrible pressure. The old quotation from the Irish orator—"Redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled"—was something that Beecher's friends considered applied to his escape from Fullerton's hands. Beecher was under half an hour's and then prior to taking a recess descended from the stand and received the congratulations of his friends and relations. Poor Mrs. Beecher's eyes lighted up with a gladness that has long been a stranger to them. Her daughter, Mrs. Scoville, was equally influenced to comfort and happiness, and Mr. Scoville was so far impressed as to cry, "Hip, hip, hurrah!" Beecher himself was glad that the agony was over and was uncommonly communicative. He left the court room at recess and did not return during the day. Nor did Fullerton put in an appearance in the afternoon. After the cross-examination ceased he sat steadily staring at the witness.

Beecher has made a negative impression. The people who have sat day after day under his shadow in the court room and listened to his answers have come away with the impression that he must be a deeply injured man or else he is a deeply injuring witness. There were times in his testimony when the latter impression was very strong on the minds of most people, and Beecher appeared more the sinner than the saint. The common sense of the public who read his answers and statements will determine as fully and emphatically as any verdict of a jury the true measure of the man's culpability. He has not been a great success as a witness for himself, and as against himself everybody will determine by the record of his testimony.

THE EVIDENCE.

To Mr. Fullerton—I first saw Victoria Woodhull about the 1st of June; saw her at Tilton's; had an interview with her there; that was after the publication of her card; it might have been immediately after; the interview was brought about in consequence of that publication, but without my knowledge; next saw her in the autumn of 1871; about the 20th of October, 1871.

Q. Between those interviews did you receive any communication from her? A. I cannot say; I have no letters of hers to me in my possession; my counsel may have.

Q. Did you receive that from Mrs. Woodhull? (Paper handed to witness.)

After a careful perusal of the paper the witness replied:—I think this is it; I am not familiar enough with her writing to be positive; it looks like the tenor of its contents.

The letter read in evidence, is as follows:—

15 EAST THIRTY-EIGHTH STREET, 19th, 11th, 1871.

REV. H. W. BEECHER:—

DEAR SIR—For reasons in which you are deeply interested as well as myself and the cause of truth, I desire to have an interview with you, without fail, at some hour to-morrow. Two of your sisters have gone out of their way to assail my character and purposes, both by the means of the public press and by numerous private letters written to various persons with whom they seek to injure me, and thus to defeat the political ends at which I aim.

You doubtless know that it is in my power to strike back and in ways more disastrous than anything that can come to me; but I do not desire to do this. I simply desire justice from those from whom I have a right to expect it, and a reasonable course on your part will assist me in it. I speak guardedly, but I think you will understand me. I repeat that I must have an interview to-morrow, since I am to speak to-morrow evening at Steinway Hall, and what I shall or shall not say will depend largely upon the result of the interview. Yours very truly,

VICTORIA C. WOODHULL.

P. S.—Please return answer by bearer.

Witness—I did not answer that note; sent it to Moulton; I proposed to write an answer, and consulted with him about it; he dissuaded me from replying, saying that he could manage the matter himself; he did not explain how; he did not detail to me how he should do it; he said he thought I had better write no answer.

Q. Why did you consult him about it? A. I consulted him about everything.

Q. When had you that interview with her? A. The next morning; the interview was brought about by Moulton; I called to see him the next morning, to learn how affairs stood; he was then in a different mood from the day before; on the previous day he was of the mood that I should not write an answer, but on the second occasion he said he thought I had better see her; this was the occasion of the interview referred to; my impression is that it was held at Moulton's; it did not occupy more than from a half to three-quarters of an hour.

Q. Did you go with her to any other part of Mr. Moulton's house on that occasion? A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you recollect what you stated on your direct examination in that regard? A. Oh, yes; I went back from the chamber and saw Mr. Moulton down stairs; that was after the termination of the interview with her.

Q. Did you relate the circumstances of the interview you had with Mrs. Woodhull to Mr. Moulton and Mr. Tilton? A. Yes; I gave them some account of the interview.

Q. When and where was that? A. Immediately subsequent, I think.

Q. Where? A. My impression is that it was below in the parlor; it may have been in the other room, up stairs.

THE WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE LETTER.

Mr. Fullerton—I will read another letter:—

44 BROAD STREET.

DEAR MR. BEECHER—Mrs. Stanton and I have just had a conference that you be procured to speak at our Washington Convention. You are aware we intend to use every effort to persuade and force Congress to pass the Declaratory Act just introduced by General Butler. No single person whom we know would have such an influence upon Congress, and we hope you may deem the occasion worthy of your attention. Yours,

VICTORIA C. WOODHULL.

Q. Did you answer that letter? A. I have an impression I did, sir.

Q. And before answering did you communicate with Mr. Moulton? A. I think, sir, I wrote an answer and showed it to him.

Q. I now call your attention to Exhibit 42; is that the letter you wrote to Moulton after receiving that letter from Mrs. Woodhull? A. I presume this is mine, sir; but, of course, with reservation, not having the document in my hand; I presume it is mine.

THE LETTER TO MOULTON.

Mr. Fullerton—I will read it to you.

TUESDAY EVENING, Jan. 2, 1872.

MY DEAR FRANK—I send you Victoria Woodhull's letter to me and my reply, which I submit to your judgment. Tell me what you think of it. Is it too long—will she use it for publishing? I wouldn't wish to have it so used. I do not mean to speak upon the platform upon either occasion. What influence I possess I intend to use on my own hook. I do not mean to train with either party, and it is not fair to press me when I am not willing to go. I leave it to you, and you judge for me. I have leaned upon you hitherto and I have never been sorry for it.

2. I was mistaken about the Christian Union coming out so early that I could not get a notice of the Golden Age in it. It was just the other way, to be delayed, and I send you a rough proof of the first page and the Star article. In the paper to-morrow a line or so will be inserted to soften a little the touch about the Liberal Christian.

3. Do you think I ought to keep a copy of any letters to V. W.? Do you think it would be better to write it again and not say so much? Will you keep the letter to me and send the other if you judge it wise?

4. Will you send a line to my house in the morning saying what you conclude? I am full of company.

Yours, truly and affectionately, H. W. B.

Q. Did you consult with Moulton on any matters pertaining to this, except those which related to the scandal? A. Yes, I consulted him about the Christian Union affairs; I wanted him to take stock in it, and told him I should be glad to have him as one of the stockholders; I thought his business habits would be of considerable help to it.

Q. You wrote that letter to Moulton dated January, 1872? A. Yes, sir; I don't think I had the scandal matter in my mind at the time.

Q. Were you not apprehensive that Woodhull would publish some facts in her possession in relation to the scandal? A. I did not know but that she would; but I was under influences that disarmed those.

Q. Was the letter from Woodhull, asking you to attend a convention at Washington, a matter of so much importance that you had to call in some one to consult with as to the nature of your reply? A. A letter from Mrs. Woodhull, accompanied by one from my sister, urging me to attend a convention at Washington—not as regarded the general woman question, but with regard to a special theory got up by General Butler—that was a matter of considerable consultation; I considered it important enough to consult another party (Mr. Moulton) with regard to it.

Q. Was it your idea to placate that woman without giving offence at the same time? A. It is quite possible, but I don't recollect that it entered into my thoughts at the time; Mr. Moulton regretted the reasons for my not going; he thought it would be a good thing for me to go, but I had other arrangements which I could not forego, and under those circumstances he thought the letter was good enough; I cannot recollect the precise time that I spoke to Mrs. Moulton with regard to the propriety of her associating with Woodhull.

Q. Had you the fullest confidence in Mrs. Woodhull at the time? A. No; I think I stated to Mrs. Moulton that my first feelings about Mrs. Woodhull had not been favorable.

Q. Did you not preside at the Steinway Hall meeting? A. No, sir; I didn't believe in her doctrines, so far as I knew them; I did not profess to know them; I said to Mrs. Woodhull that it wasn't my habit to preside at public meetings at all and I saw no reason in her case why I should change my habit, and as to speaking about her views—I believe she made a statement that I believed in her views—and as it was a sort of forlorn hope, and it would be in accordance with my habit to be found on the weak side—on this point, I said to her, that that would be no argument to me, because I was not previously acquainted with her views; but so far as I knew her social relations were concerned I wasn't in accord with them.

BEECHER TO WOODHULL.

Q. I will now read your reply to Mrs. Woodhull:—

BROOKLYN, Jan. 1, 1872.

MY DEAR MADAM—Your letter of December 30, in which, after a conference with Mrs. Stanton, you invite me to take part in the Washington convention in behalf of woman suffrage, is duly received. I am engaged during the whole week of the convention with lectures in Massachusetts and Maine. I cannot say I am so sanguine of the immediate or near admission of women to the rights of suffrage. But of its ultimate accomplishment I have not a doubt, since justice and expediency combine in requiring it. That manhood is, on the whole, made better and stronger by a direct participation in the duties and responsibilities of active citizenship, notwithstanding incidental evils, is becoming the sentiment of the civilized world, nor is there any reason to doubt that, in spite of temporary and incidental evils, the same advantage would accrue to womanhood. In every wise and Christian government for the education and enfranchisement of women I hope always to be in sympathy.

The Witness—"Movement."

Mr. Fullerton—What did I call it?

The Witness—"Government."

Mr. Fullerton—It is "government." (Reading):—

I am respectfully yours,

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Mrs. VICTORIA WOODHULL.

—That is the letter as you wrote it? A. Yes; my impression was that it was longer; I don't think that Moulton eliminated any of it; that was after the Steinway Hall meeting.

Q. What was the condition of your general health in 1872? In your conversation with Mrs. Moulton you allude to a letter you had written to Mrs. Tilton in which you say:—"In my letter to Mrs. Tilton I alluded to the fact that I did not expect when I saw her last to be alive many days; that statement stands connected with a series of symptoms which I first experienced in 1856; I went through the Fremont campaign, speaking in the open air three hours at a time three days in the week; on renewing my literary labors I felt I must have given way; I very seriously thought I was going to have apoplexy, paralysis, or something of that kind; on two or three occasions, while preaching, I should have fallen in the pulpit if I had not held on to the table; very often I came near falling in the streets; during the last fifteen years I have gone into the pulpit, I suppose 100 times, with a very strong impression that I should never come out of it alive." Did those symptoms continue through 1873? A. I do not recollect the mere fact that they did; the state of mind continued through that period; I subsequently was relieved of these apprehensions; I don't think I put forth those reasons as the motive for my writing that letter.

Mr. Fullerton read the application to the New Jersey Mutual Life Assurance Company for a policy of assurance on the life of Mr. Beecher, and having put a few unimportant questions in regard to it, the direct examination of Mr. Beecher closed about half-past twelve o'clock.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION OF MR. BEECHER.

Re-direct by Mr. Evarts—Mr. Evarts read the medical report regarding Mr. Beecher's health as it appeared on the application for an insurance upon his life, already referred to. Mr. Beecher said:—I had not the slightest interest in this insurance; J. B. Ford & Co., my publishers, took out this policy, looking to an interest in my "Life of Christ." Not for years have I entertained an idea that there were symptoms that might lead to a sudden termination of my life; but some years ago I did entertain an idea that there were symptoms that my life was precarious and might come to a sudden end; that idea arose in periods of depression; I have been cautioned by my friends to be cautious; I have a short neck, and when I preach I get red in the face; I have now made an examination and find that when Mrs. Beecher was in Florida, in 1871, I had no additional superintendent in my household; Mrs. Beecher directed it by letter from Florida, and all the arrangements were left to Elizabeth, the cook, and another servant who had long lived with us.

Mr. Evarts read a letter from Mr. Beecher to Mrs. Tilton, recommending a separation and support, and stating that in his (Tilton's) present desperate state it would cause bad feeling if Mrs. Tilton were near him.

Mr. Beecher was questioned whether Mrs. Tilton had ever orally denied her undue affection for him. He replied that there was a denial or the retraction, which was in evidence.

Q. Did you ever receive from Mrs. Tilton an oral denial of her undue affection for you?

Mr. Fullerton made some objections, to which Mr. Evarts replied that the witness had made some allusion to having received an oral or written denial of having engaged the affections of Mrs. Tilton.

Mr. Beecher said he had received no oral denial from Mrs. Tilton of the engagement of Mrs. Tilton's affections toward him; in 1871, 1872 and 1873 I think I have received as many as twenty-five letters a day.

To the Court—I think I have received as many as that per day of anonymous letters during the progress of this case.

Mr. Evarts—Perhaps some of them were written by the same persons.

Mr. Beecher then stated his custom as regards the conduct of his correspondence; his letters were laid on his library table; if letters were anonymous he threw them aside; if they were letters that his wife could answer better than he he left them for her to answer; in matters peculiarly belonging to the church he allowed the church to take care of such matters; as to the West charges, he did not take any special action in them; with regard to publications concerning himself, when he first came to Brooklyn, he thought he would read the criticisms of the press regarding him; but later on he came to the conclusion that he would neither read favorable or unfavorable criticisms upon himself, as, if he did, he would soon have nothing else to do. (Laughter.) Mr. Beecher then gave explanations as to certain documents that were to be drawn up after the publication of the Bacon letter; Mr. Moulton wanted him to write a card admitting an offence, and after that he would burn all the letters he had in his possession; Mr. Cleveland, as he was informed, was not, in 1874, connected with J. B. Ford & Co., except owning one share in the Christian Union Publishing Association, which is distinct from J. B. Ford & Co; before the committee was appointed he was at a loss to know who to talk to; according to his impression he did not talk to Mr. Cleveland on this matter before the committee was appointed. He was questioned as to what was his intercourse with Mrs. Tilton after 1871. To this Mr. Fullerton objected. Mr. Evarts read again from the evidence to show that Mrs. Tilton had given her affections to Mr. Beecher, and that he had brought to bear upon her moral influences that would lift her above it.

Mr. Fullerton said counsel was not entitled to put the question, as he had not gone into the conversation.

The Court—Mr. Evarts asks for the character of the intercourse.

Mr. Beecher said his intercourse after that was as little as possible, but he endeavored to bring influences to bear upon Mrs. Tilton's religious feelings that would help to make all things in her household pleasant and calm.

To a juror—I think that in raising the $5,000 on my house Mrs. Beecher joined in the mortgage; I told her that it was a business arrangement.

This concluded Mr. Beecher's examination, and the Court took a recess until half-past two o'clock.

AFTER THE RECESS.

A plain falling off in the interest was perceived after the reassembling of the court at half-past two o'clock. A tall man, named Samuel White Partridge, who had been a cashier in the employment of Woodruff, Robinson & Co., took the stand to prove the receipt and deposit of Bowen's check to Tilton for $7,000, accompanied by a slip or memorandum. A long argument ensued between counsel and Court as to the admissibility of the memorandum. The Judge at first refused to receive it, Evarts argued eloquently for it and Beach objected with force and logic against its admission. Finally the paper was received. It was a slip attached to the check, reading, "Spoils of our new friends for the enrichment of old." It was passed over to the jury and made quite a sensation.

TESTIMONY OF S. W. PARTRIDGE.

Samuel White Partridge sworn:—I reside in New Jersey; I have resided there for twelve years; have been employed in the firm of Woodruff & Robinson; left there last December; was there from 1849, with the exception of one year; I was cashier for the whole time, with the exception of about a year and a half; checks and deposits passed through my hands; in 1872 a check of Bowen's came into my hands for $7,000; that is the check (identifies it); with that check there was also attached a slip of paper (identifies the slip of paper); this slip of paper passed out of my hands last Friday; I delivered it to Mr. Shearman; the check was deposited; I think I put both papers in the drawer, and the slip of paper to one side, before I put it in my pocket.

Mr. Evarts said he now offered to read the slip of paper.

The Court—What is the object of this?

Mr. Evarts—This memorandum is in the handwriting of Mr. Tilton; I want to show the character of the transaction.

The Court—That slip might have been handed in by some subordinate clerk, who appended it to the check.

Mr. Evarts—We propose to show that they both came together.

After some further discussion between counsel the witness said:—The check and the slip were handed to me by the same person; I have an indistinct recollection that they were handed to me by Mr. Franklin Woodruff; I cannot say from whom I received them, but I think it was from a member of the firm; the slip of paper is not in the handwriting of any member of the firm.

Counsel for the plaintiff argued against the admissibility of the slip of paper which Mr. Evarts had proposed to read.

Mr. Beach said that he was free to admit that the paper was in the handwriting of Mr. Tilton but he did not admit that that paper was transferred by Mr. Tilton to this firm in company with his check, or that this memorandum related to this check or the transaction indicated by this check. He meant to insist, even if it should appear that this paper was delivered by Mr. Tilton, in company with this check, it nevertheless was immaterial and incompetent evidence. What Mr. Tilton chose to do with this check, or however he might choose to characterize that instrument or to indicate the source or object of the money which was represented by that check, was totally immaterial to this controversy.

After some further argument the Judge allowed the paper to be read.

Mr. Evarts (showing the paper to the jury)—Now, gentlemen of the jury, you will see that the pinholes on those two papers completely correspond.

Mr. Evarts (to witness)—Before you received this check and memorandum, Mr. Partridge, had you known or heard anything of what Mr. Tilton was going to do if Mr. Bowen did not pay him?

Mr. Beach—From whom?

Mr. Evarts—I ask him if he did in any way.

Judge Neilson—Say yes or no, Mr. Partridge.

The Witness—Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Mr. Partridge, you didn't connect these papers together in any way yourself, did you—pin them or otherwise connect them together. A. No, sir.

Q. And do you remember whether, when they came to you, whether they were connected by a pin, in a common envelope, or in a common fold? A. I do not remember.

Q. Do you remember the fact of the publication of Mrs. Woodhull's life by Mr. Tilton. A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you remember a conversation with Mr. Moulton on that subject? A. I remember his speaking to me about it, but I believe I spoke to him in the first place.

Mr. Evarts—Did Mr. Moulton say anything to you on the subject of Mr. Tilton's objects and motives in writing that life? A. He did; he said he wrote——

Mr. Morris—What Moulton said in Tilton's absence?

Judge Neilson—Yes.

Mr. Beach—Before they can show declarations of Mr. Moulton?

Judge Neilson—It does not come in as an impeachment.

Mr. Beach—It can't come in at all then as declarations of Mr. Moulton against Tilton. I beg Your Honor to consider it.

A lengthy argument ensued, and Mr. Evarts said he proposed to prove what one of these men said of the other man's object and motive in writing that life, and that it had no connection with humoring this woman, but was for Tilton's own object. Mr. Evarts was unable to understand that this was a collateral fact. It might be subordinate. It might not be the head and front of the evidence to prove Mr. Beecher guilty; but its sole place here, as introduced by them, had been to prove a part, a make-way, an influence from which guilt was to be imputed to Mr. Beecher on the principal fact by his authorizing—ratifying their conduct.

Mr. Beach said that, admitting for the moment that Mr. Tilton and Mr. Moulton had agreed in the declaration of the purpose for which their intimacy with Mrs. Woodhull was instituted and prosecuted, he then submitted that the declarations of Mr. Moulton, he not being a party to this action, or in any degree interested in its result, except collaterally, as a witness, his declarations, as against the interested party (Mr. Tilton) were not receivable, upon any principle of LAW, OR LOGIC OR JUSTICE.

Where did the counsel learn that Mr. Moulton even counselled the writing of the life of Mrs. Woodhull by Mr. Tilton, was privy to it in any degree, and least of all advised or concurred in any such proceeding, for the purpose of conciliating and placating that lady. Why, the evidence was that Moulton had no connection or knowledge of that life except when it was written and nearly completed, and then condemned and disapproved it, protested against it, and advised Mr. Tilton not to write it and not to publish it.

Mr. Evarts formally offered to prove by this witness that Mr. Moulton told the witness when the matter was fresh and the "Life of Mrs. Woodhull" was just published that Mr. Tilton's motives and objects were to

of this country, and that they were more numerous than the Congregationalists.

Judge Neilson said he would like to have specific information as to the evidence of Mr. Moulton, because if he had given evidence of that character the defence might contradict it by this witness.

Mr. Evarts said that Mr. Tilton assigned a reason which Mr. Moulton asseverated and delivered as the true reason. Indeed, Mr. Evarts did not know even that it rested necessarily on the formal words or statement of Moulton; but Mr. Moulton delivered it as the motive of Mr. Tilton in this step—that is, carried to the account of Mr. Beecher and his interests, under the final statement of Mr. Tilton on his redirect examination, that "before God Mr. Beecher was as responsible for everything done with the Woodhull as he was."

Judge Neilson—If you can show me anything Mr. Moulton said upon his examination on this subject you are at liberty to contradict it by this witness. I desire to rule by certain settled rules of evidence.

Mr. Evarts—I don't call him for the purpose of contradicting Mr. Moulton.

Judge Neilson—Then I will rule it out.

Mr. Evarts—I call him to deliver the truth as stated by Mr. Moulton and Tilton that the personal objects of Tilton were the source and the motives of the writing of that life.

Mr. Evarts read from the testimony of Moulton to the effect that Tilton's work on the "Life of Mrs. Woodhull" was simply a revision of the manuscript of her husband. Tilton "thought the people would detect his handiwork in it, and he therefore put his name in it; and I told him that I didn't think that was a very good reason; he said he would take the responsibility; that was the sum and substance of it, with the exception he said it was a friendly act, and right in the interest of the repression of the scandal against Mr. Beecher, himself and his wife. It was in the interest of his family and Mr. Beecher that he had done it, and if he had made a mistake, why, that was all there was of it." Mr. Evarts said it was not in the sense of impeaching, it was what they call collateral impeachment on independent matter. He proposed to show, not by hearsay of a stranger, but the statements of Mr. Moulton, identified by his own evidence and by Mr. Tilton's.

FINAL REPLY OF MR. BEACH.

Mr. Beach replied that the argument of his learned friend rested upon the assumption that Mr. Tilton, Mr. Moulton and Mr. Beecher entered upon a common operation for a certain assigned motive, that they were in league and association for a common object and by common and interested means; that in other words they were in a confederacy, which, applied to an unlawful transaction, might be termed a conspiracy; and the counsel sought to assimilate the rules of evidence which applied to a league of that character in this association between these three gentlemen. Now if that premise was assumed he might with great propriety admit that the declarations of the parties engaged in this common transaction with a common purpose might be admissible, though he didn't believe they would be. He did not think that an arrangement of this character, with reference to a lawful and private purpose, under any circumstances made the declarations of the parties in that transaction admissible as against the other. There was no allegation in this evidence that Mr. Beecher ever approved of the act or was ever consulted in regard to it, or that Mr. Moulton ever approved of it as one of the means which were to be taken for the purpose of accomplishing the common object of these three parties—to wit, the conciliation of Mrs. Woodhull.

Judge Neilson—I have already intimated that it is very clear to me that the examination of this witness must be confined to the contradiction of any statement which it appears Mr. Moulton made in his examination. That is the extent to which you can go.

Mr. Evarts excepted to this ruling and continued the examination of Mr. Partridge.

Q. Do you remember the payment into the firm's account of the $5,000 that came from Mr. Beecher? A. I do, sir.

Q. You knew at the time it came from Mr. Beecher? A. No, sir, I did not know who it came from.

Q. You remember a $5,000? A. Yes, sir; it was in May, I think; the early part of May, 1873.

Q. There is no dispute, the facts are all proven; now, Mr. Partridge, did you make an entry in the books of the firm under Mr. Moulton's direction respecting that $5,000? A. I must have made it under his direction, because——

Mr. Beach—Wait! wait! I move to strike that out.

Judge Neilson—Yes.

The Witness—I credited it to Mr. Moulton; I don't remember the precise language he used.

Q. You entered it to his credit? A. To his credit.

Q. By Mr. Moulton's direction? A. There were $5,300 that I entered; the $300 was a check I had made for him a good while before; he didn't want to use it then and I had kept the check, and I destroyed the check at that time and put it to his credit.

Q. That is, you carried to his credit that $5,000 and this $300 which had been charged to him—the check which you destroyed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He approved of it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When the money which thus went into Mr. Moulton's account, this $5,000, was paid out did you receive instructions to whom it should be charged? A. He told me the next day to make a check for $1,000 and charge it to him as paid to "T. T."

Q. And so afterward? A. Afterward "T. T."

The Court adjourned until eleven o'clock this forenoon.

Mr. Cleveland will be the first witness to-day.

KISSING IN CHINA.

NEW YORK, April 21, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

In your issue of to-day, under head of "Kissing in China," you gave as an authority an extract from the Philadelphia Press, which is really a condensation of the story entitled "Miss Isén," written by me for "Lotos Leaves."

As the fact of kissing being unknown among the Chinese was first brought to notice by myself and has been denied by some of my countrymen, who only know the Chinese of Hong Kong Harbor, I will give you the reasons why this nation has repudiated the osculatory art.

In remote times it was known and practised, but when Confucius reinaugurated and retaught the doctrine of veneration of ancestors the Chinese gradually abandoned kissing as vulgar and tending to promote familiarity. As a proof of this we cannot find the act delineated upon any piece of china or in any modern Chinese painting. Children venerate their parents—worship in many cases—and veneration forbids familiarity. For this reason, and aiming at a high degree of purity, the Chinese have abandoned kissing as a means of expressing regard and look with something more than surprise upon its practice by ourselves.

As this fact is exciting considerable comment, I think it as well to place it upon a more certain basis than the story of "Miss Isén." Remaining yours very truly,

EDWARD GRAY.

THE RING SUITS.

A PIECE OF SO-CALLED TWEED PROPERTY THAT WAS ATTACHED, RELEASED AND A SALE OF OTHER PROPERTY ORDERED FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE HOLDER OF A MORTGAGE.

Among the property attached by the Attorney General of the State, in the new suit against William M. Tweed, it will be remembered that in the list already published in the HERALD mention was made of certain lots and the buildings thereon in Sixty-eighth street (the total dimensions of the lots being 25 by 105 feet), 150 feet east of Madison avenue. This property in September, 1871, was conveyed by Peter B. Sweeny and his wife Sara A.; William M. Tweed and Mary Jane his wife; Thomas Murphy and Mary G., his wife; Hugh Smith (unmarried), and Richard B. Connolly and Maria S., his wife, to John C. Thompson for $105,000. The conveyance was recorded October 7, 1871. Mr. Thompson and his wife mortgaged it back for $32,000, and seven days after a second mortgage was taken upon the property by John Van Orden for $10,000. The first mortgage fell into the hands of Russell Sage, who foreclosed it. He sold to Alfred S. Barnes and Barnes sold the property to Nathan A. Boynton, a mortgage for $20,000 having meanwhile been secured to the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The consideration was $55,000. Mr. Boynton on the 18th inst. petitioned the Supreme Court to release him from the lis pendens which was filed against the property, and presented facts to show that the transactions relating to the acquiring of were mercantile matters done in good faith for value, without collusion, interview with, and "without ever seeing or having anything to do, in any way whatever, with any of the city Ring, so-called, or any member thereof." Judge Lawrence, on the strength of these proofs, issued an order to the County Clerk to cancel the lis pendens in the case so far as Mr. Boynton's property was concerned, and this order was yesterday evening filed in the County Clerk's office.

TITLE TO THE PROPERTY

A BIG LOAN.

Yet another piece of property is to be the subject of litigation. It seems that on the 25th of October, 1871, William M. Tweed, in consideration of a payment to him made of $150,000 by the Eastchester National Bank of Mount Vernon, executed to the bank, on the penalty of $300,000, a bond and mortgage on the following property:—All those lots, with the buildings thereon, in the Twelfth ward bounded as follows:—Commencing at the corner formed by the junction of Fourth avenue with the southerly side of 129th street, thence southerly along the west side of Fourth avenue ninety-nine feet eleven inches to the centre line of the block; thence westerly along said centre 140 feet, thence northerly and on a line parallel with Fourth avenue 99.11 feet to the southerly side of 129th street, and thence easterly along the same 140 feet to the place of beginning. On the 12th of December, 1872, the bank assigned to Thomas F. Mason all the interest it then had in the bond and mortgage, and it is claimed now by Mr. Mason that there is due him by Tweed $50,000 on the bond and mortgage, with interest from the 25th day of October, 1871. Richard Tweed claimed that he was the owner of the property, and put in his proofs when served with the summons on Mr. Mason's complaint, but on to Judge Van Brunt, of the Supreme Court, by Edward S. Dakin, the referee, the Judge decided on the 13th inst. that William M. Tweed owes Mason $50,000, with interest from the 25th of October, 1871, debars the defendants from all claim or interest in the property and orders it to be sold according to law; that the money of the sale be brought into court; that the plaintiff be paid the amount due on the bond and mortgage $51,634 61, with interest from April 13, 1875, until payment is made, and that Tweed be adjudged to pay any deficiency that may remain after the application of the moneys are made according to the decision. The defendants in the case are Richard M. Tweed, William M. Tweed, Charles B. Hart, David S. Mills, Samuel W. Davenport, James C. Gulick, Archibald W. Allerton and John B. Sherman. All the papers were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday afternoon.

THE FACTS PRESENTED

THE PAPAL ENVOYS.

The Papal envoys, Mgr. Roncetti, Dr. Ubaldi and Count Marcioschi, started for Baltimore early yesterday morning. They were accompanied by Father Quinn, the Vicar General of this archiepiscopal diocese, who is to present them to Archbishop Bayley. The purpose of the visit to Baltimore is to hand to the prelate of that diocese letters from the Secretary of State of the Holy See, Cardinal Antonelli, informing him that Archbishop McCloskey had been preconized to the College of Cardinals, and directing him to impose the scarlet berretta upon the new Cardinal. The envoys will remain in Baltimore until Monday next, and when they return they will be accompanied by Archbishop Bayley. Vicar General Quinn will come back to New York within a day or two, as it is his duty to supervise all the arrangements for the grand ceremonies of Tuesday next. In his absence Father Kearney acts as the director of these preparations. He is also to act as master of ceremonies on Tuesday morning.

The number of applicants for tickets of admission to the Cathedral at the time of the ceremony of investiture is almost unlimited. The priests of the Cathedral are continually importuned by applicants. It is enough to say that no tickets will be distributed indiscriminately until after Saturday next, and it is likely that all that then remain in the hands of the priests at the Cathedral will be given to their parishioners.

ALLEGED FORGERS ARRESTED.

At twelve o'clock yesterday a man, apparently about forty years of age, walked into the banking office of Parker Handy, No. 24 Nassau street, and stated to one of the clerks that he desired to purchase $4,800 in gold. The appearance of the man was such as to arouse the clerk's suspicions, and he replied that it was always customary for strangers doing business with his house to give references. The man then drew from his pocket a card of the firm of Colgate & Co., John street, and laid it on the counter, but this only served to strengthen the suspicion entertained against him, and he was told that they did not care to sell him the gold, after which he left.

Detective Kealy of the Central Office had been on the track of the man, who has been for some time known to the police as an old offender, and was closely watching him when he entered the place. As he came out he was joined by another man, and the pair proceeded to walk toward the Post Office, when the officer concluded to arrest them.

On their persons were found five blank checks with the signature of Colgate & Co. Mr. Colgate was communicated with and on examining the signatures on the checks at once pronounced them forgeries, although he admitted that they were well executed.

The prisoners gave their names as Thomas Betts, residence Rahway, N. J., and occupation a speculator, and John R. Inman, railroad conductor, living in Waverly, N. Y. The former is the one who entered the banking house, and he is known under several aliases, among which are C. J. Sprague and Charles Thompson. The prisoners were taken to the Tombs and remanded by the Court to the cells.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

REPORTS OF THE CITY SUPERINTENDENT AND THE SUPERINTENDENT OF TRUANCY—PROTESTS AGAINST THE AMALGAMATION OF THE SCHOOLS—APPORTIONMENT OF THE SCHOOL MONEYS—GERMAN IN THE SCHOOLS.

The Board of Education held a stated meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hall, Elm and Grand streets, President Neilson in the chair.

The Superintendent of Truancy reported that the total number of cases investigated from April 7 to April 20 was 521. Of these 334 were kept at home by sickness, poverty and other causes, leaving 187 truants and non attendants, of which number 139 have been returned and 12 withdrawn from school.

City Superintendent Riddle's report for March, showed that Grammar schools Nos. 1, 7, 8, 9, 15, 17, 22, 28, 36, 38 and 51, and Primary schools Nos. 2, 3, 5, 12, 14, 23, 25, 26, 31, 39, 40 and 41, and the Model school connected with the Female Normal College, had been visited. In these schools of 393 classes examined, the instruction in 184 was found to be excellent; in 172 good, and 35 fair, and in 2 indifferent. The discipline in all the classes was commendable, except in 19, of which 16 were reported as fair, and 3 indifferent. The general management of the schools was found to be commendable in most respects; in 29 excellent. Grammar school No. 17 had been neglected by the janitor. The health of the pupils of Grammar school No. 51 in West Forty-fourth street and Primary school No. 27, in West Thirty-seventh street, was imperilled by the filthy condition of the streets. The number of pupils enrolled in all the schools on March 31 was 107,360, being 1,116 more than last year. The average attendance for March was 94,940, being 1,231 less than for March, 1874. The total number of days of absence of teachers during the month was 2,134, an increase of 518 days over last year; however, 29 teachers were absent during the month owing to severe illness, their places being now filled by substitutes.

A communication from the Presbytery of New York, in protest against the merging of the parochial and public schools (already published), was read, and referred, without debate, to the members of the Joint Committee of Conference.

A communication on the same subject was received from Messrs. Edward A. Kingsland, William P. Bensel, and Henry Dayton, a committee of the Ninth Assembly District Council of Political Reform, protesting against the proposed merging as injurious to the taxpayers and the city.

There was some discussion in reference to the report of the Committee on Sites, which had been instructed to select ground for a new schoolhouse in the Twenty-second ward. The lots that had been under consideration are located in Fifty-seventh street and in Fifty-sixth street, and the report was adverse to both. A remark from Commissioner Baker that "there was $1,500 somewhere in the matter," resulted in the appointment of a committee consisting of Commissioners Baker, Townsend, Halstead, Man and Glamroth to investigate the allegation. Commissioner Baker stated he had been credibly informed that the ground for which $28,000 had been asked could be got really for $6,800. The Committee on Sites demanded the investigation.

The bylaws were amended so as to allow the transfer of principals and vice-principals from one school to another without any change of salary.

The Committee on Bylaws recommended that the school of the Hebrew Benevolent Society should be permitted to participate in the distribution of the common school fund.

The Finance Committee sent in their report, making the annual apportionment for the schools of $1 120,420 72.

The report of the Committee on Course of Studies, touching immediately on the subject of German being taught in the public schools, was presented, when, on motion of Commissioner Man, it was not read, but made the special order for next meeting. The following are the principal changes which the committee suggested, though at the same time, out of a committee of five, there were two dissentient votes:—

Teachers of vocal music, drawing, French or German shall be classified as special teachers. No salary paid to a teacher of vocal music in a grammar or primary school shall exceed $120 a year for any school, or at the rate of $90 a year for each hour per week that the teacher may be employed; and the salary paid to a teacher of drawing shall not exceed a rate of $90 a year for each hour per week that the teacher may be so employed, nor an aggregate sum of $300 per year for any school.

Whenever the parents or guardians of thirty pupils attending a grammar department shall desire the introduction of French or German the trustees shall introduce the study of such language, but no child shall be compelled to study German or French contrary to the wishes of its parents or guardians, and whenever the average attendance of pupils engaged in the study of French or German in any department shall fall below fifteen for the period of three months such study shall be discontinued.

Whenever French or German shall be introduced into any grammar school the teachers thereof may receive a salary not to exceed the average allowed for assistants, male or female, in the grammar schools, but no teacher shall receive such salary unless his or her whole time shall be employed; and where a less time is so employed the amount of salary to be paid shall be proportionate.

The City Superintendent, under the direction of the Committee on Teachers, shall be authorized to license teachers specially to give instruction in French or German. The number of recitations in French or German in each class pursuing the study of either of these languages shall be four, of twenty-five minutes each per week, and no pupil shall be permitted to pursue the study of more than one of these languages at the same time.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

The Stock Market Erratic and Irregular.

GOLD LOWER---114 3-4.

Money Easy at 3 and 4 Per Cent and Government Bonds Strong.

WALL STREET, WEDNESDAY, April 21—6 P. M.

The stock market to-day was erratic, with a generally downward tendency. The depression in certain securities was undisguised, and the efforts made to antagonize it were fruitless. On the other hand an advance was made in quarters where it was least expected, and handsome profits were taken in by those who chose to realize on the same. This was particularly true of Wabash and Union Pacific, in both of which the sales were large. The former rose to 16½ and the latter to 74¾. Kansas Pacific, which started out so brilliantly yesterday, receded from 26⅛ to 22, ending at 22⅛. Panama sold at 140½. Ohio and Mississippi moved from 26⅞ to 27¾, which was the closing figure. Northwest common opened at 43½ and declined without important reaction to 42⅛ a 42¾. The preferred stock sold at 55⅞ a 55⅛. Erie changed from 31⅜ to 31, ending at 31⅛. Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph sold at 26¾ a 27 a 26, without much offering of stock. Hannibal and St. Joseph at 26⅜ a 25⅝ a 26. Lake Shore suffered from the statement of a large decline in earnings during the past three months, and after opening at 72⅝ a 72⅞ fell off to 71⅝. Pacific Mail began at 44½, advanced to 45⅛ and ended at 45. It is not yet announced that any settlement has taken place between this company and Panama, and the stock is therefore subject to mere guess work on the part of those who are not in the secrets of its management.

THE SALES OF TO-DAY

amounted to about 210,000 shares, which were divided among the active stocks as follows:—New York Central and Hudson River, 245; Erie, 12,800; Lake Shore, 35,500; Cleveland and Pittsburg, 100; Northwestern, 23,000; Northwestern preferred, 1,250; Rock Island, 1,210; Pacific Mail, 39,000; St. Paul, 2,100; St. Paul, 2,100; Ohios, 17,500; Western Union, 11,200; Wabash, 17,500; Union Pacific, 39,000; C., C. and I. C., 100; Panama, 2,300; Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, 3,500; Kansas Pacific, 700.

ADVANCE AND DECLINE.

The closing prices to-day, compared with those of yesterday, show the following changes:—

ADVANCE.—Atlantic and Pacific preferred, ½; Ohio and Mississippi, 1; Pacific Mail, ⅜; Panama, 1½; Wabash, ⅛; Union Pacific, 1¼; Western Union, ⅜; Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, ⅛.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Money was again in abundant supply and the rates on call loans from 3 to 4 per cent. The Treasury to day began the payment of the May interest without rebate, the outflow from which will tend to swell the reserves of the banks and make capital more free for commercial and speculative enterprises. Foreign exchange was firm. Prime sterling asking rates were 4.87½ and 4.90½; selling rates, 4.87 a 4.87½ and 4.90 a 4.90½; reichmarks, 95 a 95⅛ and 95⅜; cables, 96¼; prime Paris, 5.15 and 5.12½; other rates, 5.15⅝ a 5.12½.

THE GOLD MARKET.

Gold opened at 115 and sold up to 115⅛, but the majority of transactions were on the basis of 114¾, which was the closing figure. On gold loans the rate was 1 per cent for carrying and borrowing to flat.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

London advices report that consols are ⅛ higher than yesterday, with United States ten-forties ⅛ lower and the other issues stronger. The discount market remains at 3 a 3⅛ per cent. The point is well taken that if Europe will continue its investment in American securities we shall be spared the necessity of shipping gold. The exchange market will be supplied with bills, and our banks, through the disbursements of coin by the Treasury, will gain in strength and thus become a guarantee for an easy market in money during the summer months. The last London quotations were as follows:—Consols for money, 94 a 94⅛; do. for account, 94⅛; '65 bonds, old, 105⅛ a 105¼; '67 bonds, 108⅜ a 108⅜; 10-40 bonds, 103⅜; new fives, 102⅛ a 102¼; Erie, 27½. £6,000 in bullion was withdrawn from Bank on balance to-day. Rentes, at Paris, 64f. 7½c.

COMMERCIAL REPORT.

SPOT COTTON DULL AND LOWER—FUTURES AGAIN LOWER—FLOUR DULL—WHEAT DULL AND IRREGULAR—CORN EASIER—OATS ACTIVE—BARLEY MORE ACTIVE AND FIRMER—RYE FIRM—PORK A SHADE FIRMER—LARD EXCITED AND HIGHER—PETROLEUM DULL—NAVAL STORES QUIET—WHISKEY STEADY—GROCERIES FIRM.

WEDNESDAY, April 21—6 P. M.

The merchandise markets were without important change, as a general thing, though irregularity and fluctuations were rather the rule than the exception. On 'Change flour was dull, and the low grades were declining. Wheat was in moderate demand, but rather firmer. There was more export demand, but shippers demurred to paying any advance, and the market closed quiet. Corn was dull and declining, and closed lower. Oats were without decided change. Barley firm. Whiskey steady. Pork was firmer. Lard was strong, and slightly excited under an increased inquiry from the "short" interest. Groceries were very firm in value, but the movement was light. Cotton was wanted by exporters, but they refused to pay the prices demanded. The quotations show ⅛c. decline; futures declined ⅛c., but recovered the loss and closed quiet. Naval stores were generally quiet. Petroleum was weak and inactive.

COFFEE.—The movement in Rio was light, but the tone of the market was well sustained and closed up firm. The samples of the steamer South America cargo were shown, and of which 2,000 bags were sold at 18⅜c. chiefly. At the outports trade was quiet, with the exception of a rumored sale at New Orleans of 4,505 bags by the Oscar, price not reported. Mild grades were quiet. We quote:—Ordinary cargoes, 16⅜c. a 16⅞c.; fair do., 17⅛c. a 17⅝c.; do., good, 18c. a 18⅜c.; prime do., 18⅝c. a 19⅛c.; extreme range for lots, 16c. a 19⅝c. Java, government bags, 25c. a 26c.; do., grass mats, 25c. a 27c.; Singapore, 21c. a 23c.; Ceylon, 18⅝c. a 21c.; Maracaibo, 18c. a 21⅛c.; Laguayra, 17c. a 18⅞c.; Jamaica, 16½c. a 18c.; St. Domingo, 16c.; Porto Rico, 17c. a 18c.; Costa Rica, 17c. a 20c.; Mexican, 18⅝c. a 19c.; Angostura, 17⅛c. a 19c.; Savanilla, 17⅛c. a 20c.; Curacoa, 17c. a 18⅛c., gold, 60 and 90 days.

COTTON.—There was a good demand from exporters for spot cotton, and several large lots were bid for, but the prices offered were in all cases below sellers' views, and no transactions resulted. Several trades were pending as the market closed. There was no demand from spinners aside from the usual call for small lots. Speculators showed no disposition to buy unless at a further concession. The appended quotations note a decline of ⅛c. per lb. for all grades. The market for futures opened weak under the influence of the unfavorable tenor of Liverpool reports, and prices declined ⅛c. This loss was subsequently recovered, however, owing to a reported reaction in Liverpool, and the market closed quiet at about last evening's closing prices. The latest quotations were as follows—April, 16⅛c. a 16 5-32c.; May, 16 5-32c. a 16 3-16c.; June, 16⅞c.; July, 16 21-32c.; August, 16 13-16c.; September, 16 21-32c.; October, 16 3-16c. a 16 7-32c.; November, 16 1-32c. a 16 1-16c.; December, 16 1-16c. a 16 3-32; January, 16 7-32c. a 16¼c. Quotations based on standard of classification in force September 1, 1874, and on upland cotton in store running in quality not more than half a grade above or below the grade quoted:—Ordinary, 14⅛c.; good ordinary, 15⅛c.; strict good ordinary, 16c.; low middling, 16⅛c.; middling, 16⅞c.; good middling, 18c. Quotations based on American standard of classification:—

THE AERIAL LADDER JOB.

WAS COMPTROLLER GREEN ALWAYS OPPOSED TO THE AWARD OF TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS?—HIS VOTES FOR IT IN THE BOARD OF APPORTIONMENT.

As Comptroller Green, according to the testimony of Corporation Counsel Smith, given before the Committee on Law of the Board of Aldermen last Saturday, was always opposed to the city's paying $25,000 for the aerial ladder to Mrs. Uda or anybody else, it may be of interest to the general public to know that the minutes of the Board of Apportionment show that at the meeting of the Board held on the 19th of December, 1873, the Comptroller offered for adoption a "preamble and resolution and final estimate for the support of the city government for the year 1874," which were adopted by the Board, the Comptroller voting in the affirmative. In this final estimate, which was part of Mr. Green's resolution, under the head of "The Fire Department," the following item occurs:—"For improved fire escape and life saving apparatus, or aerial ladder, $25,000.

At the meeting of the Board held on the 8th of April, 1874, the Mayor (Mr. Havemeyer) offered for adoption the following resolution:—

Resolved, That the appropriation of $25,000 made by this Board December 19, 1873, for an improved fire escape and life saving apparatus, or aerial ladder, be and the same is made applicable to the purchase of the patent right for building said ladder within the city and county of New York or for the construction of said ladder.

The Comptroller is recorded as having voted for this resolution.

There was a rumor among the politicians at the City Hall yesterday that at the next meeting of the Investigating Committee a witness would be forthcoming who would testify that Mrs. Uda only got $7,500 instead of $15,000 for the patent. The members of the committee spoken to about the matter stated they had no such witness, but if there was such a person and they could lay hands upon him they would see to it that he told "the true story."

The revised estimates for 1874 were adopted by the Board of Apportionment at their meeting, June 29, 1874. The Comptroller voted in the affirmative on the question of the adoption of the estimates, but said nothing against the following item before the vote was taken:—For purchase of patent right for use of improved fire escape and life saving apparatus, or aerial ladder, within the city and county of New York or for the combination of said ladders, $25,000.

TRIPLE SHEET.

NEW YORK, THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1875.

From our reports this morning the probabilities are that the weather to-day will be cold and generally clear.

WALL STREET YESTERDAY.—Gold closed at 114¾. Money was easy at 3 and 4 per cent on call. Stocks were irregular, with prices generally lower.

A DISASTROUS FIRE occurred in Worth street yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of one hundred thousand dollars and injuries to two members of the Fire Department.

RACING IN ENGLAND.—Hampton won the Metropolitan Stakes at Epsom yesterday, beating the favorite and eight other competitors.

THE PAPAL ENVOYS have visited Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore, to inform him that he has been appointed by the Holy See for the honor of conferring the scarlet berretta upon Cardinal McCloskey.

MINING TROUBLES.—Governor Hartranft is very hopeful of a speedy ending of the lamentable state of affairs in the mining districts of Pennsylvania, and expresses confidence in the peaceable solution of the longest and most stubborn conflict between capital and labor that has ever been known in the mines.

THE LOUISIANA MUDDLE, which was supposed to be at rest, turns up again in a new form. United States Marshal Packard complains that the democrats have unseated four republican members of the Legislature, in violation of the compromise. There's a chance for Sheridan again.

DAN BRYANT.—The laudable efforts of the various managers of the metropolitan theatres in organizing benefit performances for the family of the deceased public favorite, Dan Bryant, are meeting with deserved success, and there is every reason to expect that the special matinées on the 29th inst. will be extensively patronized.

THE NEW CARDINAL.—The grand ceremony which is to take place at the Cathedral on Tuesday next, the investiture of the first American Cardinal with the insignia of his office, will be an event of importance. The most extensive preparations are being made to render the ceremony as impressive as possible, and the music will be unusually interesting.

GENTLE SPRING seems to have changed her nature, for the disorderly conduct of the wind in the streets yesterday, compelling even the car drivers to veil themselves, was inexcusable and reprehensible. Moving day is at hand, and it will never do to have genuine March winds running riot through the streets and the thermometer being kept down when the "merrie month" of May puts in an appearance.

An Interesting Interview with Pope Pius IX.

The picturesque letter from Rome which we print this morning is full of interest. It treats of Rome as it is, and as it was before the Italian occupation. The magnificent festivities, the ecclesiastical pomp, the rich spectacles in thronged streets, the solemn and affecting ceremonies beneath the dome of the great church, which is one of the noblest monuments of the sublime genius of Michael Angelo, are now omitted; for the Holy Father has decided to consider himself as a prisoner, and Easter has lost its former splendor and attractions in the capital of Catholic Christianity. The first part of our interesting letter is taken up with pictorial descriptions of the great Easter scenes in the streets and temples of worship as they were presented in their former magnificence before a political blight fell on the temporal power of the Sovereign Pontiff, and which have disappeared since he no longer steps outside the walls of the Vatican. The succeeding portion of the letter may be regarded as an account of the effects of this confinement on the two great ecclesiastical dignitaries whose sense of decorum and adherence to principle shut them up as prisoners.

The point of deepest interest, both to the Catholic and non-Catholic world, is the declining physical strength of the aged and venerable Pope. He feels that he would violate the dignity of his office and compromise the rights of the Church if he should go forth beyond the limits of the palace and grounds over which the Italian government does not assert its jurisdiction. Beyond these restricted limits he feels that he would expose himself to be regarded as an Italian subject, and he refuses, at the peril of his health, to permit his dignity to be insulted by putting himself even constructively under the authority of a secular monarch who has invaded his rights, and, as he thinks, sacrilegiously despoiled him of his temporal power. The weight of years presses upon him with greater force in consequence of this seclusion and of the anxieties which attend his contest with what he regards as the usurping Italian government. Cardinal Antonelli, who is not yet quite three score and ten, suffers in his bodily health from the same cause. This great ecclesiastical statesman is suffering under a probably incurable malady, which is exacerbated by his enforced change of habits. He formerly possessed a villa, the property of the Church, in a suburb of Rome, whither it was his custom to drive on every bright afternoon and recreate himself with pleasant horticultural pursuits and exhilarating views of landscape and sky. Since he is cut off from this support of his declining strength his health wanes apace, and both Minister and Pope are visibly approaching the end of their troubled career and must ere long leave to other hands the great interests which they have so long jointly administered.

The part of our correspondent's letter which will be read with most interest is his report of the audience which was accorded him by the venerable Pontiff. It was what is called a semi-private audience—the nearest approach to a private or confidential audience, which, of course, he could not have reported. He received this mark of recognition in consequence of his relation to the HERALD. Its ostensible object, which brought it within the etiquette of the Vatican, was to express to His Holiness the thanks of the proprietor of the HERALD for the great courtesy of communicating a copy of his Allocution on the occasion of the creation of the new cardinals in advance of its delivery—a courtesy never before accorded to any secular journal. The forms of etiquette observed in audiences with the Pope are clearly and graphically described by our correspondent, who makes a pleasant addition to the public knowledge on such subjects. What he says of the changed personal appearance of the Pope has an almost pathetic interest. A feeble old man of patriarchal aspect, who walks heavily with the assistance of a cane to support his steps, who is bowed by the weight of years and accumulated sorrows, whose hanging cheeks and drooping lineaments attest the hand of time, whose once clear and melodious voice has lost its sonorous fulness and resembles a cracked and wornout musical instrument with just enough of the old tones to recall its former richness, whose pristine courtliness of manner, softened at its best with a gracious paternal kindness, still retains its fatherly air of sweet benevolence, is a picture fitted to touch all generous hearts, even though they be entirely out of sympathy with the ecclesiastical pretensions of this aged and sorrow-stricken Pontiff. He, of course, made no confidential communications to our correspondent. The secrets, the policy, the hopes of the Vatican must be learned or conjectured from other sources. But it is, nevertheless, entertaining to have so clear a view of the Pope as he appears to-day to an observer admitted to his presence and with whom he condescends to converse in a pleasant, familiar way. Among the topics of conversation—if that can be called a conversation in which our correspondent becomingly performed the part of an intelligent and reverent listener, except so far as he answered questions—the most interesting to our public was the creation of an American Cardinal. What the Pope said of Cardinal McCloskey was in a warm strain of personal appreciation, which will be extremely grateful to his friends and admirers in this country who have known him so long and so well. "He has the dignity of a prince," said His Holiness, "and makes a great impression upon everybody when he comes here. This you may tell your people, and let them know that our thoughts are often with them." These words of praise will be remembered by the American Catholics long after the imposing ceremonies which they are soon to witness in the Cathedral of this city.

When the time comes, as it soon must, for this remarkable Pontiff, who has probably performed his last important act in the creation of the new cardinals, to rest from his labors, he will be entitled, in universal Catholic estimation, to say, like an ancient apostle, who hardly surpassed him in zeal, "I have finished my course; I have kept the faith." In the long line of pontiffs who have occupied the Papal throne no one has ever done more to advance and establish Catholic doctrines and secure their zealous acceptance by the whole body of that great communion. The Ecumenical Council of 1870, called by his authority, assembled under his auspices, dominated by his influence, moulded by his spirit, will always rank as one of the greatest events in the history of the Catholic Church. True it is that under this Pope, who has done so much to build up Catholic doctrines, inspire Catholic zeal and promote Catholic unity, the temporal power has been lost; and what effect this loss may have on the future fortunes of the Church is a secret veiled by Providence from human eyes. From the point of view of statesmen the temporal power will never be recovered, and if events should justify this opinion great changes must ultimately follow. But the hope of recovering the temporal power is not likely to be relinquished by the Catholics of this generation. By his selection of the recently appointed cardinals the Pope has doubtless imposed the election of a successor who will continue his unyielding policy, and nobody can foresee what may result from the action of Germany, which tends so strongly to consolidate the views and inflame the zeal of the Catholics of all countries. The present Pope will leave the keys in a momentous crisis of the Church.

A New Judge of General Sessions.

The bill now before the Legislature, introduced by Mr. Daly, of this city, providing for a new Judge of the Court of General Sessions to hold the same rank as the Recorder and to be elected, like him, by the people, is a better expedient for promoting the prompt administration of criminal justice than the bill for creating a new criminal court, introduced last week by Mr. Waehner. This new bill is understood to have been drafted with the approbation and assistance of District Attorney Phelps, and we trust it will be passed without serious opposition. The title of the new magistrate is to be County Judge. He is to be chosen for fourteen years at the next general election, and to have the same powers as the Recorder and City Judge. After the new law goes into effect on the 1st of January next two branches of the Court of General Sessions will be held each month, except July and August, giving double the present facilities for the administration of criminal justice. The bill also authorizes the appointment of an additional Assistant District Attorney, and requires the Commissioner of Public Works to provide proper accommodations for the court. Mr. Waehner's bill was in the right direction, but this is a better measure. The fact that it has the support of District Attorney Phelps ought to be accepted as a proof both of its necessity and its excellence.

The Promised Balance Sheet.

Some four months ago Mayor Wickham informed the Common Council that he was not in possession of such information as sufficed to show the actual financial condition of the city, and he promised his aid to the Aldermen in any effort they might make to procure a satisfactory balance sheet up to December 31, 1874, showing exactly how much we owe and what means we have to pay our debt. Three months ago, or thereabouts, the Aldermen called upon the Comptroller for such a balance sheet. It has never been forthcoming. We know no more to-day than we did on the 1st of January last of our actual financial condition. We are ignorant of the disposition that has been made of unexpended balances of appropriations, of the true amount of claims existing against the city, of the money expended on useless litigation, of the amount of taxes remitted and uncollected, and are without much other information which the people have a right to possess. If Governor Tilden has resolved, on personal and private considerations, to keep in office an incompetent, obstinate and tricky financial officer, he should at least insist that his accounts be laid fully before the taxpayers, and that he shall cease to resist and obstruct investigations of his books and vouchers. At present the Mayor, the Common Council and the people are ignorant of our true financial position. They are only permitted to know that Mr. Green has increased the bonded debt over thirty-five million dollars in three years; that our annual taxation has risen to a rate of more than three per cent on the taxable property of the city; that we pay about nine million dollars a year for interest, and that an indefinite amount of floating debt hangs over the heads of the taxpayers in addition. Concealment and deception in financial matters are inconsistent with honesty, and it is the duty of the Governor to require the Comptroller whom he keeps in office to change his secret and suspicious policy.

Lexington and Concord.

We print elsewhere an interesting letter of our venerable fellow-townsman, Mr. Samuel B. Ruggles, to the committee who had the Lexington celebration in charge. One of their reasons for inviting Mr. Ruggles was the fact that, in 1836, he secured the name of Lexington avenue to one of our important streets, which was regarded by the committee as a recognition of the claims of Lexington. We have in our American cities many streets and in our States many towns, some of them of great importance, called Lexington; and it is quite true that the name of Concord has not been so multiplied and honored. But Mr. Ruggles is too large a minded man to regard such a circumstance as extinguishing the claim of Concord. He deprecates the splitting and dividing of the transactions of the same day, and thinks, as the HERALD thinks, that the honor of the two towns, in a phrase of Webster which he aptly applies, should be regarded as "now and forever, one and indivisible." The merits were equitably awarded by Mr. Everett in carefully weighed and beautiful language when he invoked "grateful admiration to those who stood in the breech at the breaking of that day of blood at Lexington; to those who joined in battle and died honorably at Concord; and to those who fell in the gallant pursuit of the flying enemy." Mr. Ruggles, though his letter was addressed to the Lexington committee, sees no reason for changing this just distribution of praise.

TREASURE TROVE.—A quantity of gold coin found in a cesspool at Factoryville, Staten Island, on Tuesday last, will tend to revive the Captain Kidd mania. How much gold, after all, gets into bank accounts through unclean hands!

SPRINKLING THE STREETS.—If the city authorities do not adopt some measures to lay the dust which is now careering around cases of ophthalmia will become disagreeably frequent. Have the sprinkling carts been disposed of for good?

The Politicians at Albany.

The politicians have flocked to Albany this week. John Kelly is there, with the prestige of his triumphant indorsement by Tammany Hall last Monday to augment his influence with the democracy. That forcible statesman, Mr. John Morrissey, is on hand, probably to assist Mr. Kelly and probably to aid Senator Fox in his struggle to pass the Police Justice bill. Colonel Fellows is in the company, a faithful henchman of the new "Boss," earning his nomination as District Attorney next fall. Sheriff Conner is there, probably to look after his own interests in the Marine Court Judgments bill, which in this instance happen to be the interests of the people of New York as well. The Finance Department Lobby Guard are at their posts, under command of a leading lobby chief, who returns to the State capital after a free interchange of views and "arguments" with the head of that department. Everything betokens an active period in the legislation of the session, and those who are not in the secrets of the several cliques are anxiously and curiously awaiting developments.

There are several charter jobs at Albany, and desperate efforts may be made to revive those that have been temporarily disposed of and to press others that have not yet been reached during the last days of the session. The rumor prevails that Mr. Green is laboring to resuscitate his famous bill to abolish the Mayor's office and make the Comptroller a sort of municipal autocrat. One report is that the arguments of the lobby are to be used in its favor with the Committee on Cities, in whose safe keeping it now lies. Another is that the said arguments are intended for the black horse cavalry in the Assembly, so as to induce them to discharge the committee from the further consideration of the bill and to order it to the Committee of the Whole. Although it seems probable that the latter attempt may be made, it is not very likely that it will succeed, especially as Mr. Green and his allies could only raise five votes in Tammany Hall against Mr. Kelly. If this great project has to be abandoned, however, there are several other plausible bills for tinkering the charter floating somewhere or other in the legislative current, all of which cover schemes concocted by the Finance Department, and none of which should be suffered to succeed. It is easy enough to defeat bad legislation at the close of a session, if only a small number of honest representatives watch vigilantly for the appearance of jobs and oppose them with promptness and determination. A protective guard of this kind should be formed in both houses, and the duty of its members should be constant attendance and unceasing vigilance. The charter of 1873, tinkered and patched by as corrupt a set of political gamesters as ever ruled the city, is open to amendment; but as we cannot hope for its improvement at this late day, every attempt to change any of its provisions, except the alteration is one that commends itself strongly to favor, should be resisted. We know what the law now is and can afford to live under it another year. With the Governor and the Mayor in accord the municipal government can be made harmonious and efficient. It is better to trust to this desirable result than to tinker the charter in the interest of individual office-holders.

The Centennial Exposition.

When, a few years ago, the idea of a centennial commemoration of the great act of independence first assumed a definite form and substance, no one doubted as to its propriety and necessity. There could not have been found a man or woman, at least north of the Potomac, who had any misgiving on the subject, and, even south of that limit, over the territory which war had wasted, where nature had not wholly repaired the desolation and time had not cured the physical and moral wounds which war had inflicted, even the South looked to this prospective commemoration of "the happy olden time" with a hope that it might be a festival of substantial peace and reconciliation.

The only question, and that was only topical and transient, which arose was as to locality. We wanted it naturally enough, and we may admit that if we had had it things in the way of contributions out of our own means would be different from what they are. But the logic of history, the power of association was too great, and Philadelphia rightly prevailed. It would have been rather unpicturesque for New York to have claimed, it in view of the little she—we mean the city—did for independence. We are getting a little ashamed of celebrating Evacuation Day, when, after six years' undisturbed occupation, the Britishers quietly moved away. Philadelphia was not only the City of Independence, but, as has been well said, there were more classic spots, more battles fought—witness Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown, Barren and Edge Hill, Valley Forge and Monmouth—within a radius of forty miles from the State House than in any other territorial area of the Old Thirteen. Philadelphia, too, was the city of the mother Congress of 1774 and of the Federal Convention that made us one people. Hence was it that, as we say, Philadelphia rightly carried the day. Strange, and we must say, discreditable as it is, we sometimes think New York has never quite forgiven her for this success. It is high time she did.

This was the initiate state of feeling, and initiate action corresponded to it. Had the Philadelphians been animated by any mere local sentiment they would have gone to their State Legislature and got their charter of incorporation there. There are some who think that, in a business point of view, it would have been better if they had. They meant it, however, to be national and they asked and obtained aid from Congress for these privileges. Under this charter they have acted ever since; all that the State has given has been liberal pecuniary assistance, her neighbor of New Jersey generously co-operating. Congress, until toward the close of the session, gave nothing. The times were unpropitious. The motive of federal legislation—in the way of anything like subsidies for anything—had come to be suspected. Constitutional scruples were conveniently at hand, and strict constructionists who saw no difficulty in appropriating money to send parties to Pekin and Kerguelen Land to observe a planetary transit could find no authority to vote a dollar for a great historical and national commemoration. It may have been all right. We only note the fact that it was so.

Still Congress did something in the right direction. It authorized and required the Executive to reindorse the enterprise by a formal invitation to foreign nations. We do the President the justice to say that no compulsion was necessary for him, and as to the Secretary of State—our New York Secretary—if at first he seemed more suo to move slowly, when he did act it was earnestly and gracefully. Foreign nations were invited, and are coming if we are only ready to receive them; and are coming, too, through this gateway of New York. Now, what is New York State and city going to give to carry out triumphantly this great plan? The Concord-Lexington Centennial has sharply indicated the enthusiasm which the greater event of the Fourth of July, 1876, will evoke. Let it be said, then, that New York has borne her share of the expense, and in a proportion worthy of the Empire State.

Rapid Transit and the Legislature.

There are a few things the Legislature ought to do for the city of New York before it adjourns, if it desires to leave behind it some little favorable reputation at this end of the State. It did well to defeat the poultice pavement job; but it should follow up the good work by providing for the proper repavement of Fifth avenue in accordance with the wishes of the residents on the line and of the citizens generally, and should place the avenue under the authority and care of the Park Department. It should pass the bill to provide for the removal of telegraph poles from the streets of the city and to compel the companies to lay their wires underground, as they are laid in European cities. The companies, wealthy and greedy, will resist the change, because it will entail an outlay upon them; but they can afford the expense, and the question is one between their interests and the interests of the city. Above all, it should pass some law giving us, under the new constitutional provisions, some fair prospect of successfully initiating a practical rapid transit movement. This, above all other New York measures, should have received the earnest consideration of the Legislature, and if inaction prevails up to the close of the session the people will regard our present representatives as dishonest or incompetent.

Credit is due to the citizens who are agitating the matter of rapid transit, and there is no doubt of the advantage of all their movements, even if their proceedings do present some evidences of inharmonious views. The public mind needs to be thoroughly aroused to the importance of the subject and to be kept aroused until a practical result is accomplished. It is unfortunate that the main furor for rapid transit is excited in bad weather, when travel by the horse cars is interrupted or terribly trying and inconvenient, and after the Senators and Assemblymen have been elected to the State Legislature. As soon as fine summer weather arrives the discomfort of the horse cars is forgotten, and people lose sight of the great question that ought to be always before their eyes. Our legislative representatives are again chosen before the interruption of travel returns, and we forget to inquire into the one all-important point—whether they are faithful and competent advocates and supporters of rapid transit. It is to be hoped that the popular movements now going on will not only not be abandoned during the pleasant weather, but that they will continue to be pressed with vigor. At the same time we need legislation on the subject, and if we do not secure it at the hands of our present representatives it is to be hoped that none of them will be sent back to Albany, at least from this end of the State.

BEAUTIES OF THE POLICE.—The "best police force in the world" afforded the citizens of New York a specimen of its proficiency in one of the most useful of its accomplishments on Tuesday last. An officer of the force entered the station house "somewhat under the influence of liquor," as the sergeant in charge testifies, and immediately proceeded to use his club on the head of a brother officer. His expertness with the weapon enabled him to lay upon his victim's skull in four places before his amusement could be interfered with. Of course the Commissioners cannot do so inconsistent an act as to discharge the pugnacious officer from the force. They retain in the force a captain who has expressed to the Board his conviction that the police ought to use their clubs whenever they can find an excuse for so doing, and has admitted that he gives his own men instructions to keep their hands in by such practice. They should make so able a hand as Officer William Maher an inspector at least.

THE CUBAN PATRIOTS.—Our news to-day from the Ever Faithful Isle is not calculated to inspire belief in the many Spanish assurances we have received of the collapse of the rebellion there. The patriots are livelier than ever, and evince a degree of audacious spirit that must be galling to the pride of their oppressors. Even the redoubtable Captain General, Valmaseda, is afraid to encounter them, and he allows them to have everything pretty much their own way.

THE REMOVAL BILL at Albany is still undergoing such an elaborate process of tinkering that when it passes the Legislature, if such an event can ever happen, no one will be able to tell what it will look like. The last amendment proposes a judicial tribunal, consisting of the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals and the presiding judge of each of the general terms of the four departments of the Supreme Court.

SHARKEY'S case is still in abeyance in Havana, and strenuous efforts are being made to save the notorious murderer from the gallows which awaits him in New York. The want of an extradition treaty between the United States and Spain is the principal obstacle in the way. One would think that a murderer should receive no consideration in any civilized community.

MEXICAN SUGAR will be, likely, an important article of commerce, as far as this country is concerned, to judge from the measures adopted by the planters of the Sierras Calientes, according to our despatches. As an offset to this saccharine news we hear of a case in that country in which three men were buried alive and otherwise tortured.

The Riverside Avenue Improvement Bill.

The Riverside Avenue Improvement bill has passed the Assembly and is now in the hands of the Senate. An attempt is made on the part of the Comptroller and his allies in the policy of suffocation to defeat it in the republican branch of the Legislature. Its rejection by the Senate would be as injudicious politically as it would be unjust to the large body of taxpayers and citizens interested in its success.

Riverside avenue, as laid out under the act of 1867, was an avenue one hundred feet wide between parallel lines. Under authority of chapter 850 of the Laws of 1873 the westerly line of the avenue has been changed. This was done so that the avenue could be treated somewhat in the manner of a Park drive, and as it is now laid out it conforms with the natural topography of the land, which greatly increases its beauty, besides lessening the cost of its construction. These changes have suggested the question whether the provisions of the act of 1867 for the payment of the cost and assessment of the improvement upon the property benefited apply to the avenue in its present shape. The object of the present act is simply to remove such a difficulty, which, if it really exists, is purely technical. It would be sufficient to declare that the law of 1867, which applied to Riverside avenue as originally laid out, should apply equally to Riverside avenue as altered by the law of 1873, were it not that the present constitution seems to forbid legislation in this form.

The total cost of the avenue is estimated at one million dollars, one-half of which is to be assessed upon the property benefited. It will not exceed that sum, and contrary statements are only made to aid in defeating the bill. It is untrue that the bill requires the immediate completion of the work. It is left in the same condition as all other streets and avenues in the city. The object of a contrary statement is apparent. The fact is that the bill is a simple act of justice. The Riverside Park and avenue were originally laid out by the Commissioners of the Central Park. A very large number of the property owners objected to the improvement on account of the assessments it would necessitate; but it was insisted on by Mr. Green and others who now oppose it as an indispensable portion of the general plan of improvement and development adopted for that section of the island. The land was taken and the assessment laid three years ago. The assessments have generally been collected and the property owners now naturally desire to see an improvement for which they have been assessed over three million dollars carried out to completion, so that they may begin to reap some of its benefits. Mr. Green, who is now the real opponent of the improvement, would be as warmly in its favor as he ever was if he could still control the work. It remains to be seen whether the republican majority in the Senate will deny this act of justice to a large body of taxpayers for the sake of gratifying the spleen and malice of an individual.

M. MICHEL CHEVALIER ON THE GREAT COMMERCIAL QUESTION OF THE DAY—WHAT THE FRENCH ECONOMIST THINKS OF THE TRADE POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES.

LONDON, April 21, 1875.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce gave a dinner this evening in honor of its guest, M. Michel Chevalier, the celebrated French economist.

WHAT THE FRENCH ECONOMIST HOPES FOR AMERICA.

M. Chevalier, in reply to a complimentary toast, made a speech, in which he dwelt on the benefits of free trade. He expressed his admiration at the extraordinary progress made by the United States. A nation so anxious to possess all the improvements in public and private life, so eminent for its love of liberty, could not long remain bound to the protective system. Protection was repugnant to a progressive policy, checked the growth of trade and restricted the liberties of producer and consumer.

He especially pointed out "the inconsistency of the Americans in imposing duties on foreign grain while they attempted to inundate the grain markets of Europe with their products."

SUGAR CULTIVATION AND PROBABLE EXPORT TO AMERICA—A HORRIBLE CRIME—THREE MEN KIDNAPPED AND MURDERED.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 12, 1875, }
Via HAVANA. }

The planters of the Sierras Calientas, at a recent meeting, resolved to export 150,000 arrobas of sugar to the United States and Hambourg for the purpose of making its quality known abroad, and increasing its value as well as that of their plantations. They have also taken steps to induce the general government to remove the tax on native sugar.

The Legislature of Morelos is disposed to return the local tax paid by the planters, thus offering a premium for the production of sugar.

SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM GOVERNOR KELLOGG—DEMOCRATS CHARGED WITH BAD FAITH—THE CLINTON IMPEACHMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, April 21, 1875.

Governor Kellogg to-day sent a special Message to both houses of the General Assembly, calling attention to the fact that the time for which the Assembly was convened is rapidly drawing to a close, and earnestly urging the passage of the bill for the relief of the city of New Orleans, and recommending an amendment to the Funding law. His Message closes as follows:—

Permit me to say that it is expected of you, under existing circumstances, that the great interests of the State and city shall receive the preference in your proceedings over the advancement of party ends, and that our financial condition renders it very undesirable that the term of this session should be extended, nor can it be with justice to the taxpayers or the creditors of the State.

The following telegrams explain themselves:—

NEW ORLEANS, April 20, 1875.

Hon. WILLIAM P. FRYE, M. C., Lewiston, Me.:—

The democrats have unseated four republican members to-day. Telegraph me whether, in your opinion, by the agreement signed the democrats were to disturb more of the members of the House except those mentioned in the award to go out. S. B. PACKARD.

LEWISTON, Me., April 21, 1875.

Hon. S. B. PACKARD, United States Marshal, New Orleans:—

By the agreement and award the status of your Legislature was to remain as we left it. The democrats violate their good faith and plighted honor in their outrageous attempt to change it. W. P. FRYE.

THE CLINTON IMPEACHMENT RESOLUTION.

It is supposed they have formed a junction with one more of the bands that remained out during winter, and the whole force is probably about 500. They are evidently

INTENT UPON FIGHTING.

All the available troops at Fort Dodge and Fort Hays have been ordered out after them, with instructions to gather them in if it takes all summer. Troops are also moving up from the south to engage them. The military are confident they cannot escape a collision with one or the other of the forces marching against them.

SENATOR WOODIN'S SUBSTITUTED REMOVAL BILL—THE TAXATION OF INSURANCE COMPANIES—THE BILL OF THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN FOR RAPID TRANSIT—FINAL PASSAGE OF CITY BILLS.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

The circle of New York political celebrities has become very much enlarged here within the past twenty-four hours. Mr. John Kelly arrived this afternoon and is a guest at Congress Hall. Among other representatives of Tammany organization present are Sheriff Conner, General Spinola, William A. Boyd and John Morrissey. The republican interests are closely watched by District Attorney Bliss, ex-Surveyor Wakeman, Commissioners Starr, James Davis and others. The marshalling of political forces at this particular juncture has given rise to considerable speculation. Of course, the end of the session is fast approaching, and all interests and jobs are about to culminate. Legislation for New York city has not assumed any particular prominence. Whether or not we are to have a new charter seems to be at present writing one of the improbabilities. The disorganized condition of Tammany politics in the metropolis, and the alliances, offensive and defensive, likely to be made here for party purposes, have no doubt considerably frightened the leaders of that organization. The result of Monday night's election in the Tammany Society has decided the interior management of this body for the next year. Tammany Hall now asserts an undivided following. On the other hand, this election is claimed here by outsiders as no indication whatever of the future success of Tammany. They look upon it as an omen of defeat in the contest to come. It is also urged as a further exhibition of the centralization and despotism to which the people of late have so emphatically objected.

POLITICAL PROPHECIES.

We have the news given out here that ex-Sheriff Brennan has made peace with his enemies in Tammany Hall, and will be awarded the position of Police Commissioner, in return for his influence and coalition with the "powers that be." Danger exists, however, that some of these delightful political calculations will be scattered to the winds. Leaders among republican Senators and Assemblymen mysteriously nod their heads and prophesy a rod in pickle for their opponents. They whisper, "The Miller charter is not dead, but sleepeth." Then dissatisfied democrats from the city and country threaten to bolt the whipping-in process, and the often used specious cry of "party measure." They cannot see where "party" considerations operate in supporting amendments to the New York charter when many of the prominent public positions in that city are at present occupied by republicans. A new charter might materially change the aspect of affairs, both as to management and patronage. As the game stands now, democratic members of the Legislature have scarcely anything to say. It is no wonder that they express dissatisfaction, and the leaders are compelled to come from New York as messengers of "grace, mercy and peace."

Governor Tilden's two measures, the Removal bill and the Inspector's bill, were to-day before the Senate for discussion. The latter measure has already passed the Assembly and now comes before the Senate for concurrence. The tone of debate was considerably warmer to-day than on previous occasions.

THE REMOVAL BILL.

In what shape the Removal bill will now pass seems beyond conjecture. Senator Woodin's amendments offered to-day to the original bill appear to meet with more general approval than any propositions hitherto introduced. By these amendments a judicial tribunal is created, consisting of the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals and the presiding Judge of each of the General Terms of the four departments of the Supreme Court. The special duty of this tribunal is set down as the hearing and determining of any charges which may be preferred by the Governor against the Comptroller, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Attorney General, State Engineer, Surveyor or Canal Commissioners. An objection has been raised as to probable unconstitutionality in organizing such a tribunal. Senator Laning and others seem to harbor impressions in this direction. One fact is clear—the appointment of a court for the purpose of trying charges against State officials would remove the entire controversy beyond political influences. The people are more likely to intrust so important an examination in the hands of their highest judicial officers than when it was under the control of those who, although entirely honorable and trustworthy, may be swayed by political influences. The bill will again be brought before the Senate to-morrow for discussion.

THE INSPECTOR OF PUBLIC WORKS.

This bill, which gives to the Governor the appointment and removal of an Inspector of Public Works, is also likely to cause some warm discussion before its final passage. When the measure came up in the Senate to-day Senator Lowery made a vigorous speech, advocating immediate action upon it one way or the other. He said it had been whispered around that this Removal bill, intended to uphold the Governor in his efforts for reform, was to be killed. He and other Senators had been told their political life would be forever finished if they dare vote for those measures. This was the secret of such opposition; but it had no terror for him. He believed the bills were right, and so believing would support them, though the heavens should fall. Senator Lowery is a republican representative from Utica.

AN IMPORTANT INSURANCE BILL.

A bill comes up for final passage in the Assembly to-morrow over which the insurance companies are considerably exercised. It provides that "no tax shall hereafter be assessed upon the capital of any life, fire or marine insurance company, organized under authority of this State, but the stockholders of such insurance companies shall be assessed and taxed on the value of their shares of stock therein." There is a strong lobby here to defeat this bill, and vigorous efforts will be made in that direction.

RAPID TRANSIT.

Senator Moore to-day received a copy of the Rapid Transit bill, which has been sanctioned by Mayor Wickham and the Board of Aldermen of New York. The bill was accompanied by a memorial from these gentlemen asking for its passage. The full text of the bill is but the enlargement of the draft submitted by the Committee of the Board of Aldermen on their report to the Board on the 4th of March and published in the HERALD on the following day.

THE SPECIAL SESSIONS BILL.

Justices Kilbreth and Sherwood are here lobbying against Senator Fox's bill providing for the appointment of two additional police justices to hold a court of special sessions.

Mrs. Pelton and Governor Tilden gave a magnificent reception at the Executive Mansion this evening to the members of the Legislature, the State officers, Judges of the Court of Appeals and Judges of the Supreme Court and their families.

THE PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

BILLS REPORTED.

Regulating Coroners' inquests in the city and county of New York, and providing payment for the services of scientific persons.

Also, adversely to the act relating to General Terms of the Supreme Court. Agreed to.

Also, adversely to the bill providing for the admission of counsellors from other States to practice in the courts of this State. Agreed to.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. BOOTH—Relative to armories and drill rooms in the city of New York.

The vote on the bill relative to State prisons and penitentiaries was reconsidered and recommitted to the Committee on Finance.

Senators Lowery, Wood and Gross were appointed a committee of conference on the Savings Bank bill.

BILLS PASSED.

To prevent cruelty to children.

In relation to General Terms of the Supreme Court.

The PRESIDENT presented a resolution of the Common Council of the city of New York, similar to that in the Assembly, relative to bone-boiling establishments.

Senators Wood, Selkreg and Jacobs were appointed a conference committee on the Appropriation bill.

THE REMOVAL BILL.

The Senate then went into Committee of the Whole on the Removal bill.

Mr. WOODIN moved a substitute, giving Judges of the Court of Appeals power to try officers impeached. He said the judgment of the Senate had already been expressed against giving the power of removal to the Governor; so that he would not stop to consider that branch of the subject. He had already indicated some of his objections to the Senate being constituted the tribunal of removal. He had made a careful calculation and found that the Senate could not meet as proposed at an expense of less than $500 per day. Therefore he objected to the Senate as the tribunal on the score of economy. Again, the tribunal which he proposed would be less cumbersome, and speedy in its operations. A trial by the Senate, where many speeches would necessarily be made, would produce much delay. The Judges possessed an aptness and fitness for the duty which he proposed to assign to them. Senators would be liable to be talked to by their constituents.

Mr. JACOBS raised the point that as Senator Gross had said the principles of the new constitution would be violated and on referring to article 6, section 10, he thought that a tribunal thus created could not act, and thus the whole work of the season would go for naught. The issue before the Senate must be carefully considered and understood. It cannot be said that Senators who have supported the Governor in his attack on this citadel of corruption have used unnecessary haste in the matter and he trusted the Senator from the Twenty-fifth would not hurry up a vote on his substitute to-day. Let the bill be printed.

Mr. WOODIN said that the Senator from the Third had made an artful speech. He had talked with some of the Judges of the General Term and felt assured that it would be accepted by them as a relief from other routine duties. No avenue of escape for wrong-doers will be allowed by this, and if finally it becomes necessary to give the power of removal to the Governor in order to preserve the honor of the State and the people, he would vote for such a bill. He was not ready to go with the Senator of the Third and present a plausible scheme. He (Woodin) wanted an effective scheme. We must divest ourselves of all excitement and prejudice and vote intelligently. When the Senator of the Third gets rid of excitement and outside influences he, too, will agree with the provisions of the substitute he (Woodin) had offered.

Mr. JACOBS thanked God that the influence he drew inspiration from was public opinion. He rose above all personal feeling in discussing this question.

On motion of Mr. Jacobs the bill was progressed.

In the Senate Mr. Jacobs moved to print Mr. Woodin's substitute and refer the bill to the Committee on the Judiciary, for that committee to report on the constitutionality of Mr. Woodin's amendment.

Mr. WOODIN favored this course, saying he was willing to abide by the decision of that committee. The bill was then referred.

The Senate went into Committee of the Whole on the Inspector of Public Works bill, Senator Ledwith in the chair.

After some time was spent in the consideration of it progress was reported and the bill made a special order for Thursday morning.

Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

The General Appropriation bill, as amended by the Senate, was received.

Mr. HAMMOND moved a non-concurrence and the appointment of a Conference Committee. Agreed to, and the amendments were ordered to be printed.

The resolution adopted by the New York Board of Aldermen requesting the Legislature to pass a law so as to prohibit the erection of bone boiling and fat rendering establishments within the corporate limits of the city was received and read.

A communication was received from the Department of Docks in New York protesting against the provisions of the Assembly bill, No. 469, which requires it to designate dumping grounds for the use of private parties. The Commissioners say it deprives them of supervision over the wharf property and water front of the city, and seriously interferes with its improvement of the same. The Commissioners point out their objections to the bill. The communication was ordered to be printed.

BILLS PASSED.

To authorize the Courts of Oyer and Terminer and Sessions of Kings county to sentence prisoners to the County Penitentiary.

To provide for assessment for improving Tenth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York.

The bill to provide for destitute and pauper children, which has been called back from the Governor for amendment, was again passed as amended. The amendment was merely a verbal one.

Authorizing the improvement of the Croton Aqueduct, New York, by changing certain gate houses.

Amending the act providing for keeping open certain public offices in Kings county by requiring them to close at three P. M. Saturdays.

Extending the time for the appointment of census enumerators and the supplying of blanks.

Authorizing the Board of Estimate to fix the salaries of Commissioners for the erection of a Court House in the Third Judicial district of New York.

Authorizing the taxation of stockholders of life, fire and marine insurance companies.

Mr. HUSTED moved to recommit this bill with instructions to strike out the enacting clause. He thought it would be an outrage to place these stockholders on a footing different from those of any other corporation.

Mr. HAMMOND regarded these stockholders the same as shareholders, and the shares of all these companies are taxed. By allowing these stockholders to be exempt at least $50,000,000 of personal property escapes taxation. It was wrong and unjust to the taxpayers. These insurance companies make large dividends, and it is a well known fact that they cost the State more in the matter of court proceedings than all the other companies combined.

Mr. HUSTED said that while all the people are taxed on their personal property where they reside this bill proposes to tax them where they do not reside, but he looked upon this as one of the most important bills before the House, and it should be thoroughly discussed. He therefore changed his motion to have the bill sent to the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. HAMMOND said that would only delay it. It could be discussed now. Every member understood it.

Mr. T. C. CAMPBELL sustained the motion to send it to the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. LINCOLN moved to add that it be made a special order for to-morrow morning, which was accepted by Mr. Husted.

This motion prevailed, with the further order moved by Mr. HAMMOND that the bill retain its place on the order of third reading of bills.

PASSAGE OF BILLS RESUMED.

To provide for the payment of services rendered for the opening and improvement of streets in New York. It limits the compensation of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment to thirty cents per foot for the lineal extent of the street, and in cases of damages compensation shall be taxed and allowed by the courts at a reasonable rate.

To amend the Common School act of New York. It connects the school of St. Vincent de Paul with the system.

Adjourned.

THE NEW REMOVAL BILL.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

The following is Senator Woodin's substitute for the Removal bill:—

AN ACT to carry into effect the command of section 7, article 10, of the constitution.

SECTION 1.—The Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals and the presiding Justice of each of the General Terms of the four departments of the Supreme Court shall form a court for the hearing and trial of charges to be preferred by the Governor against all, or any, or either of the following named State officers, namely, the Comptroller, the Secretary of State, the Treasurer, the Attorney General, the State Engineer and Surveyor and the Canal Commissioners, for removal from office on account of misconduct or malversation therein.

SEC. 2.—The Governor shall fix upon a place at the State capital and upon a day and hour for the said court to convene and organize. He shall cause notice to be given to said Chief Justice and said presiding justices personally at least five days of said time and place. He shall serve upon the officer personally against whom he shall prefer charges, a copy of the same, with a notice to appear and answer and stand a trial thereupon, at the time and place fixed upon by him for said court. Such service should be at least —— days before the time so fixed; or he may at his option omit to serve the same, and the same may be served by him as hereinafter provided.

SEC. 3.—The said Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals and the said presiding judges shall convene at the time and place named in the said notice, and shall organize themselves into a court for the hearing of the charges to be preferred by the Governor. The Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals shall preside over the court, and the court may appoint a clerk, a sergeant-at-arms and such attendants, not more than three, as it may see fit. Whenever the court shall be convened and organized the Governor shall transmit to it the charges against the officer. If a copy of the charges has not been served upon the officer at least —— days before the convening and organization of the court, with notice as hereinafter provided, the court shall cause a summons, tested in the name of the said Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals and signed by its clerk, and a copy of the charge, to be personally served upon such officer, requiring him to appear before it at a time not less than twenty days thereafter, at an hour and place to be named in the summons, to answer the said charges, and to have a trial thereon.

SEC. 4.—The Governor may suspend any of the officers named in the first section of this act during the investigation of the charges against said officer and may appoint a suitable person to perform the duties of the suspended officer during such suspension.

SEC. 5.—The said court shall have power to make such rules as it may see fit for the practice before it. It shall proceed to hear and try the said charges upon the appearance and answer of the said officer, or on his neglect to appear or to answer after the personal service, in either manner named in the foregoing sections hereof. It shall have power to issue process to compel the attendance of witnesses before it, and all the power over the witnesses and persons in attendance upon it possessed by any judicial tribunal.

SEC. 6.—The Governor shall appoint a suitable person to fill the vacancy caused by the removal, death or resignation of any officer named in this act whenever such vacancy shall occur during the recess of the Legislature. The person appointed to fill such vacancy shall hold his office by virtue of such appointment until the session of the Senate next succeeding such appointment, and until his successor shall be nominated by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate, or until the commencement of the political year next succeeding the first annual election after the happening of the vacancy.

SEC. 7.—The Governor may direct the Attorney General, or may appoint any suitable person to conduct the trial before the said court on the charges made.

SEC. 8.—The Attorney General or the person directed by the Governor to conduct the inquiry may issue a process of subpœna to compel the attendance of any witnesses before said court.

SEC. 9.—The officer accused shall have the process of the court to compel the attendance of his witnesses.

SEC. 10.—All sheriffs, coroners, constables and marshals to whom process shall be directed and delivered under this act, shall execute the same without unnecessary delay. Any person may serve a process of subpœna issued in pursuance of the provisions of this act.

SEC. 11.—This act shall take effect immediately.

THE HEAD MONEY FIGHT.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

The following is the report of the Assembly Committee on Commerce and Navigation, to which was referred the investigation into the management of the Affairs of the Board of Commissioners of Emigration, directed by the resolution of the Assembly, adopted March 3, 1875:—

THE REPORT.

The resolutions directing this investigation expressly prohibit the employment of any stenographer, clerk or attorney to aid therein, and require further that the meetings of the committee must be held without expense to the State. This sub-committee have, therefore, been able to do little more than examine the answers returned by the Board of Commissioners of Emigration to the interrogatories forwarded to them. The answers to some of these interrogatories are so evasive and unsatisfactory as to be destitute of any real value, and none of them are made under oath. From the answers given, however, this committee have gathered the following facts, which they deem worthy of special notice:—

1. That the average expense to the Board for each emigrant received by them at New York, during the year 1874, was $2 32 as against $1 74 during the year 1873. The total number of emigrants received in 1874 was 140,041; total cash disbursements, $325,855. The total number of emigrants received in 1873 was 266,818; total cash disbursements, $466,110. The decrease in the number of emigrants received during 1874 from that of the year previous will, of course, account in a measure for the increase in the average expense of caring for them; but so large an increase would seem to be neither necessary nor justifiable.

2. That while the Board have professed to abolish certain bureaus, they have, with hardly an exception, retained the officers employed therein, transferring them to other bureaus, and, in some instances, intrusting them with the same duties as before.

3. That employes have been retained in service by the Board after charges had been preferred against them, which, if established, should have procured their immediate dismissal.

4. That charges made against employes of the Board have not been investigated, as required by law.

5. That of the 146 persons in the employ of the Board in May, 1873, only fifty-one are to be found among its present employes. In answer to the request to state the cause of the removal or discharge of employes who have been removed or discharged, the Board only deign to say that "Such employes as were removed or discharged were so removed or discharged for cause deemed necessary in the interests of the commission."

The committee also call attention to the answer returned by the Commissioners to the following questions:—State whether the meeting of German adopted citizens held in Cooper Institute in New York city in 1874 was called to denounce the present commission, and whether it was for the alleged prospective and partisan course toward the German officials in the service, and their arbitrary dismissal by the Board?" and "State if the German Society, through its president, ex Commissioner Kaufmann, and the present President of the society, Commissioner Schack, took part in and indorsed said Cooper Institute meeting?" To both of these questions the Board return this answer:—"The Board have no official knowledge of this matter."

The committee feel it their duty to state further that they have received information, which they consider reliable, to the effect that the Board has been guilty of gross extravagance in continuing in service and under pay a much larger force of employes than was necessary, and that during the winter months, when emigration is much smaller than at other seasons, no decrease in the number of employes is made.

The committee regret that they are so restricted by the resolutions directing this investigation as to be unable to conduct the same with the thoroughness which, in their opinion, the nature of the case demands. In view of the importance of two bills now before the Assembly—one authorizing the Commissioners to mortgage the property under their control to pay the large indebtedness which has been contracted, and the other providing for an increase in the rate of head-money to meet the expenses of the Board—all the facts should be ascertained which could aid in determining whether the affairs of the Board are managed with economy and honesty.

The questions forwarded to the Commissioners and the answers returned thereto, covering the subjects to which the Committee on Commerce and Navigation were directed by the resolutions above referred to, are hereto annexed and made a portion of this report.

All of which is respectfully submitted. James M. Oakley, Chairman; F. W. Vosburgh, John Fream, W. H. Christopher, William H. Clark, H. J. Daggett, John W. Smith, Bernard Silverman, P. Hanrahan.

Resolved, That the Committee on Commerce and Navigation be discharged from the further consideration of the same.

THE CANAL FRAUDS.

YESTERDAY'S SESSION OF THE LEGISLATIVE JOINT COMMITTEE ON CANAL FRAUDS—EXAMINATION OF EXPERTS.

ALBANY, April 21, 1875.

The joint committee to investigate Canal frauds held a session this afternoon. Mr. W. B. Taylor, an engineer, gave evidence. He stated that he did not think the appointment of a paymaster would be in any way beneficial. Canal work should be exclusively under the control of a State Engineer. He passed judgment upon several contracts, and said the State had been a great loser by them. Politics was the paramount cause of appointments. The State Engineer does not know whether the accounts are right or wrong. Had no faith in the appointment of State Inspector of Public Works.

Van Rensselaer Richmond, ex-State Engineer, was the next witness sworn. He thought the contract system was the most vicious system ever adopted. Has been State Engineer under both the contract and superintendent system. His plan would be for a General Superintendent to be appointed by the Governor and with the advice of the Senate. He thought it would be a good idea to have an inspector, to overlook all work of the State. He did not know positively of any case, only what he had heard, where there had been any frauds committed in false measurements, or false estimates or change of plans connected with any of the works whereby the State could be defrauded in any manner. Thought that no system could be adopted that would in any way improve on the present one, providing the engineers did their duty.

Adjourned until three P. M. Thursday.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 21, 1875.

RETURN OF THE PRESIDENT'S PARTY—THE RUMOR CONCERNING SECRETARY DELANO'S RESIGNATION POSITIVELY DENIED.

The President and some of the members of his party returned to Washington this afternoon. Secretary Delano will not return until to-morrow. Postmaster General Jewell arrived this morning. He states positively that the report that the President requested Secretary Delano to resign is not true. The Postmaster General was in the railroad car with the President and Secretary Delano when the published statement referred to was brought to their attention, and his assertion is based upon what was then said by the parties directly concerned.

THE MEXICAN RAIDERS.

GALVESTON, April 21, 1875.

The following is a special despatch to the News from San Antonio:—

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF TEXAS, }
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 20, 1875. }

TO THE GOVERNOR OF TEXAS:—

The following is just received from the General of the Army in answer to a despatch from prominent citizens of Corpus Christi, setting forth the condition of affairs in that portion of Texas:—

Your despatch of the 19th is received and will be sent to the Secretary of War for the information of the President. The duty of the troops on the Rio Grande frontier is to protect all officers of the general government and, as far as possible, to aid the State authorities in protecting the people against organized bands of marauders from any quarter. But the State authorities should understand that on them rests the duty in the first instance, and that we can only assist them. Should it be a hostile measure from Mexico the President may order more troops and a more positive course of action.

R. C. DRUM, Assistant Adjutant General.

Please inform me how best I can co-operate with the State authorities in protecting the frontier. I have ordered out troops from Ringgold Barracks and Fort Brown. The troops should in both cases be accompanied by civil officers empowered to make arrests. Can you give directions to that effect?

E. O. C. ORD, Brigadier General.

The following despatch was received to-day:—

FORT BROWN, April 21, 1875.

ASSISTANT ADJUTANT GENERAL, DEPARTMENT OF TEXAS, SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS:—

Will send my disposable mounted force in the direction of El Saux, on the Rio Cano. There has been no news of the marauders to-day.

(Signed,) J. H. POTTER,
Colonel of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, commanding.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

OMAHA, Neb., April 21, 1875.

The Union Pacific Railroad is now in a passable condition with the exception of about six miles, over which transfer is being made by teams between Lawrence and Green River, which will have to be kept up a week or more. One train coming east, having on board 150 passengers transferred yesterday afternoon, will reach here to-morrow afternoon. The train delayed at Laramie will reach the transfer point this evening. Another train, going west, delayed at Cheyenne, left there this morning, and will transfer to-morrow morning. The delayed emigrant trains are being worked westward as fast as possible. The company hope to start all the first class trains to-morrow. They are considerably embarrassed on account of a scarcity of cars, but will receive twenty-six from New York by Saturday or Sunday, which will partly relieve them. They hope to get all the delayed passengers off the road by the middle of next week.

THE STRIKING MINERS.

GOVERNOR HARTRANFT ON THE SITUATION—LAWLESSNESS ON THE PART OF THE MINERS AT AN END—PROBABLE LONG CONTINUANCE OF THE STRIKE.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 21, 1875.

Governor Hartranft arrived in this city this afternoon from Harrisburg, and your correspondent has just had a long conversation with him in reference to the troubles in the mining country. He is thoroughly familiar with the condition of affairs there, and keeps himself constantly advised. He was very reluctant to call out the military, and the moment the civil authorities express their willingness he will order the troops home. There are now only 640 men, all told, in the vicinity of Hazleton, being portions of the First and Ninth regiments and an artillery company. The Governor's design in gradually concentrating the troops at Hazleton is to see if it would be safe to leave the surrounding districts to the care of the civil officers of the peace. He hopes to send the troops home in a few days, but should the presence of the soldiery be necessary he will probably relieve the First regiment by the order of some other command from this city. The Governor is sanguine that the worst of the trouble is over so far as lawlessness on the part of the miners is concerned. The strike will probably be the ever known there. But the Governor thinks that there will be no more lawless outbreaks nor interference with what is called the "dead work" of the mines—which means the finding of the furnace, the pumping off water and other necessary work which must go on every day to prevent the flooding of the mines—the strikers pledging themselves not to interfere with that labor. The Governor has great confidence in Williams, who has just been chosen President of the miners' permanent organization, and whom he regards as an honorable man, who will oppose all violence and disorder.

LONGEST AND MOST STUBBORN

BALLOON FRAGMENTS.

ATCO, N. J., April 21, 1875.

News has been received here that the basket of Donaldson's balloon has been found some seven miles from here with the dead body of a man in it, and that the balloon itself was seen going seaward.

DONALDSON SAFE.

BERLIN, N. J., April 21, 1875.

Professor Donaldson is here, at Cake's Hotel, safe and sound. After leaving Philadelphia the balloon sailed in nearly a southern direction, and landed at Conrad's Terra Cotta Works, on the Williamstown Railroad, near Atco, N. J., about half-past five P. M., when the balloon became unmanageable, and, no assistance being at hand, Donaldson was obliged to cut the basket loose inside to save it, and the main part of the balloon reascended and was lost. The upper currents of air were very cold, so cold, in fact, that the mineral water taken along by the aeronaut was frozen.

A SOUTH CAROLINA TROUBLE.

COLUMBIA, April 21, 1875.

Ex-Treasurer Parker was arrested to-day on a charge of embezzling $28,000 of the Sinking Fund money of the State. He has not yet procured bail.

THE PAPAL ENVOYS.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 21, 1875.

The Papal Envoys, Count Marefoschi, Mgr. Roncetti and Dr. Ubaldi arrived in this city this afternoon and are the guests of Archbishop Bayley.

THE CENTENNIAL HERALD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

I would not give my copy of your Centennial HERALD, published last Monday, April 19, for $100. It should be in the hands of every true American.

CENTENNIAL.

A CURIOSITY.

NEW YORK, April 19, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:—

To-day you have achieved something extraordinary in reproducing fac-similes of the old colonial papers, which I dare say will not be equalled, not to speak of exceeded, throughout the length and breadth of this country. Let me, sir, as a British subject—and an Irishman at that—say a few words on the occasion of this display to-day at Lexington and Concord. With all respect for your great journal, you have done a good deal to-day in your leading article to smooth down what might be called a bitter feeling against the English government. You have recognized the bravery of the British soldiers of the "sturdy King," &c., but about your assertion that it was "English blood against English blood," &c. Admitted; but what sort of "English blood" was it that was here? Why the scum of England, the jail birds, the thieves, rogues, robbers and murderers of England and their immediate offspring, banished from England, who naturally enough hated their jailers, and the same class would be ready to do the same thing to-day if necessary. As you very properly remark, everything was against the English here in them days; the long distance between the two countries; the difficulty in transporting troops in sailing ships. It was no wonder then that the brave little band of "good men and true" were defeated by the "renegade" scum and their immediate descendants. It was the greatest pity in the world the British flag was ever planted in this country, but let the onus or difficulty rest on some other persons; for no sooner had they properly civilized the country and established their language in it than the fidgety, recreant mongrels conspired to upset the power they owed their very existence to. Let us for a moment suppose that if any other nation than the English had existed here the same time the Revolution occurred, and that the language of that nation was the dominant language, would this country be as great as it is to-day? Few sane men will doubt it. All honor to Canada, who has stuck to the mother country and the old flag, and from what we see there is no intention of abandoning that country or flag, and if Americans have to wait till Canada "knocks at the door of the United States" I fear the hall servant will be kept waiting long enough. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, let me remind those that are celebrating the hundredth anniversary of the Battle of Lexington how it would fare with them (or with their offspring to-day) if they had to come to England to fight, and, as it was, they kept "the greatest country in the world" nine or ten years out of the Alabama claims, and if Mr. Disraeli's government was in office at the time it was paid it never would be. This note, of course, is considered partisan, and therefore will never see the light of day, in fact the waste paper basket yawns for it.

EDWARD KELLY,
No. 147 Hudson street, New York.

The NEW YORK HERALD of yesterday publishes fac-similes of newspapers published after the battles of Lexington and Concord. One of them, the Salem Gazette, issued at that time an extra sheet, the upper margin of which was ornamented with a row of coffins, bearing the names of the men who fell in battle. The name of one is John Brown.—Binghamton Times.

The Centennial NEW YORK HERALD, which created such a sensation yesterday, can be had at the Parker House news agency.—Boston Traveller.

THE FIRST FIGHT CENTENNIAL.

UNITY OF THE BATTLE OF LEXINGTON AND CONCORD.

On the 15th of April, 1875, Mr. Samuel B. Ruggles, of New York, received from Lexington the following card, marked "complimentary":—

1775. LEXINGTON. 1875.

APRIL NINETEENTH.

The citizens of the town of Lexington, Mass., cordially welcome you to the Centennial exhibition of the day which made their town historic and our country free.

CHARLES HUDSON, }
M. H. MERRIAM, } Committee on
WM. H. MUNROE, } Invitations.

ANSWER OF MR. RUGGLES.

NEW YORK, No. 24 UNION SQUARE, April 16, 1875.

To the Hon. CHARLES HUDSON and his Associates, the Committee on Invitations to the Centennial Celebration at Lexington:—

GENTLEMEN—I have much satisfaction in acknowledging the receipt of your card, bearing the "cordial" and very acceptable "welcome" of the citizens of Lexington.

In doing me this honor, the committee, as I have reason to believe, had in view the fact that the Corporation of the city of New York, in 1836, nearly forty years ago, designated, on my petition, one of the large and important streets of the metropolis as "Lexington avenue," and expressly "to commemorate the first battle in the great struggle for American Independence."

Under such circumstances it is hardly necessary to say how deeply I regret that an illness, from which I have not yet fully recovered, will prevent me from personally assisting on this most interesting occasion, in celebrating the centennial anniversary of the day so thoughtfully but emphatically declared by Edward Everett, the much lamented scholar, philosopher and orator of New England, to be "a day as important as any in the history of man," a day "to which ages as they pass will add dignity and interest, till the names of Lexington and Concord, in the annals of freedom, will stand by the side of the most honorable names of Roman or Grecian story."

Here I might well stop, but that I am compelled by some recent publications to add the expression of my full belief and conviction that the Corporation of New York, in stamping "Lexington avenue" on its map as an enduring and imperishable recognition of that memorable 19th of April, 1775, which directly opened the way to the continental union of our great Republic, did not seek or wish to make any poor partition or subdivision of the chronology of the hours and the minutes, so pregnant with mighty consequences, but broadly sought to honor the day as a whole, from the rising to the setting sun, earnestly seeking, in the glowing but accurate words of Everett, to render "grateful admiration to those who stood in the breach at the breaking of that day of blood at Lexington; to those who joined in battle and died honorably facing the foe at Concord, and to those who fell in the gallant pursuit of the flying enemy," back to the shelter of the ships of war at Boston.

It is with this necessary explanation, fortified by such authority, and seeking to embrace and embody the whole of that immortal day, that I venture further to use, in part, the well known language of Massachusetts, in offering the following sentiment:—

The Battle of Lexington and Concord—Like the majestic Union which it called into being, "now and forever, one and indivisible."

Respectfully and faithfully,

SAMUEL B. RUGGLES.

THE MITCHEL TESTIMONIAL.

A meeting of the Mitchel Testimonial Committee was held last evening at Demilt Hall, corner of Twenty-third street and Second avenue, to confer with delegates from various Irish organizations invited to participate in the movement to get up a testimonial to the family of the deceased patriot. Mr. William E. Robinson presided and Mr. John Mullaly acted as secretary. Several gentlemen explained that while they belonged to certain organizations they had not been delegated to represent them, as sufficient time had not elapsed since the call was issued to enable the societies to take action upon it. At the same time they express their confidence that if a circular from the committee were sent to the various societies inviting their co-operation a hearty response would be made. After some discussion the Secretary was instructed to issue such a circular, and a committee was appointed to engage a suitable hall and notify the delegates by advertisement.

The Secretary announced that the following gentlemen had consented to act as trustees to take charge of the money subscribed:—Charles O'Conor, Eugene Kelly, Charles A. Dana, Joseph J. Donohue, Arthur Leary, Richard O'Gorman, for New York city; William E. Robinson, Patrick Ford and other gentlemen, for Brooklyn; ex-Mayor O'Neill, Colonel McAnerney, Patrick Farrelly and others, for Jersey City, and J. B. Manning and Father Barry for Staten Island.

After discussing several propositions and transacting some routine business the committee adjourned subject to a call by advertisement.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

Miss Julia Rive plays Liszt's concerto in E flat at the last Philharmonic rehearsal at the Academy on Friday.

Miss Clementine Lasar, the charming young prima donna, sings in concert to-night at the Madison avenue Reformed church.

Mr. Robert Goldbeck's concert at Steinway Hall will be signalized by many new compositions from the pen of that accomplished musician.

The St. Mark's Literary Society gives a complimentary concert to one of its members, at the hall of the Historical Society, on Friday evening.

The opera of "Ernani," announced to take place last evening at the Academy of Music, was unavoidably postponed, owing to the severe illness of the prima donna, Mlle. Mohalbi.

Aimée's charming impersonation of Rose Michon, in "La Jolie Parfumeuse," at the Lyceum, has proved to be one of the most attractive features in opéra bouffe since the days of Tostée.

The opera of "L'Ombra" will be given this evening at the Lexington Avenue Opera House (Terrace Garden), by an amateur company under the direction of Signor Agramonte, for the benefit of the Home for the Blind, a very worthy and deserving charity.

Mr. Adolph Neuendorff, the popular manager of German opera and drama in this city, has a benefit to-night at the Academy of Music. "Giroflé-Girofla" will be given, with Miss Lina Mayr in the title rôle. The bénéficiare deserves the fullest recognition from the public for his valuable services in establishing a German theatre here on a permanent basis.

A.—THANKS "FROM THE DEPTHS OF THE heart."

WELLINGTON, Lorrain county, Ohio, August 24, 1874.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:—

DEAR SIR—Your medicines, Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, have proved of the greatest service to me. Six months ago no one thought that I could possibly live long. I had a complication of diseases, scrofula manifesting itself in eruptions and great blotches on my head that made such sores that I could not have my hair combed without causing me much suffering; also causing swollen glands, tonsils enlarged, enlarged or "thick neck" and large and numerous boils. I also suffered from a terrible chronic catarrh, and, in fact, I was so diseased that life was a burden to me. I had tried many doctors with no benefit. I finally procured one-half dozen bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery and one dozen Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and commenced their use. At first I was badly discouraged; but after taking four bottles of the Discovery I began to improve, and when I had taken the remaining I was well. In addition to the use of the Discovery I applied a solution of iodine to the goitre or thick neck, as you advise in pamphlet wrapping, and it entirely disappeared. Your Discovery is certainly the most wonderful blood medicine ever invented. I thank God and you, from the depths of my heart, for the great good it has done me. Very gratefully,

Mrs. L. CHAFFEE.

Most medicines which are advertised as blood purifiers and liver medicines contain either mercury, in some form, or potassium and iodine variously combined. All of these agents have strong tendency to break down the blood corpuscles, and debilitate and otherwise permanently injure the human system, and should therefore be discarded. Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, on the other hand, being composed of the fluid extracts of native plants, barks and roots, will in no case produce injury, its effects being strengthening and curative only. Sarsaparilla, which used to enjoy quite a reputation as a blood purifier, is a remedy of thirty years ago, and may well give place, as it is doing, to the more positive and valuable vegetable alteratives which later medical investigation and discovery has brought to light. In Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin and Sore Eyes, as in all other blood diseases, Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY has shown its great remedial powers, curing the most obstinate and intractable cases. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

EUROPE.

CANNES, SOUTH OF FRANCE.—TO BE SOLD, BY private contract, the important Freehold Property, known as the Chateau de Thorenc, a magnificent, modern stone-built Villa, the private residence of the late Sir Richard Atwood Glass, together with the whole of the valuable modern and appropriate Furniture, Fixtures, Fittings, &c., and about twenty acres of Land. The house is charmingly situated on an elevated position, about a mile from the shores of the Mediterranean, having an extensive and uninterrupted view of the open sea, the picturesque town of Cannes, the adjacent islands of St. Marguerite and St. Honorat, the Gulf of La Napoule, the Esterel hills and the surrounding country. It is in the Italian style of architecture, and was built regardless of expense by the late owner for his own occupation. It is approached from either the east or west entrance gates by carriage drives, winding by a gentle ascent through the grounds, and leading to an imposing covered porch, and contains on the ground floor, which is 18 ft. high, a handsome entrance hall and ante room, which, together with the spacious corridor, 80 ft. long, are paved with marble; a billiard room 22 ft. 5 in. by 19 ft. 9 in.; smoking room, 17 ft. 9 in. by 15 ft. 8 in., and a splendid suit of lofty reception rooms, comprising the salon, 39 ft. by 22 ft. 9 in., not including large bay, which is 11 ft. 9 in. deep, by 19 ft. 9 in. wide, and communicating by folding doors on one side with the ante-drawing room, 23 ft. by 17 ft. 3 in., and on the other side with the dining room, 34 ft. 3 in. by 19 ft. 9 in. The whole of the rooms on this floor have handsome oak parquet floors, and the front windows open on to a stone balcony paved with marble, thence by steps descending to the large terrace on which the house is built, and which is tastefully arranged with grass plots, flower beds and fine specimens of palms; communicating with the dining room is a semi-circular conservatory; the handsome double staircase is of monumental marble and most substantially built. The first floor includes three good south bedrooms, respectively 18 ft. by 17 ft., 18 ft. 9 in. by 20 ft., 18 ft. by 17 ft., with dressing closet to each, 9 ft. 9 in. by 5 ft. 6 in., and two bedrooms, west, 16 ft. by 14 ft. and 15 ft. 3 in. by 9 ft. 10 in.; bathroom, fitted with hot and cold water supplies, &c., and over the billiard and dining rooms, east and west, are two large open terraces. The second floor, to which there is a secondary staircase from the basement, contains several bedrooms; the domestic offices on the basement floor, which is lofty, dry, light and airy, are most conveniently planned, and comprise kitchen, scullery, laundry, servants' hall, housekeeper's room, three servants' bedrooms, wine cellars, wood and coal cellars and furnace room for heating corridor. The whole is in perfect order throughout, and is finished in the most superior manner, being fitted with every modern comfort and convenience. Besides having excellent water from wells on the property, the house and grounds are supplied by the Canal de la Siagne, which touches the northern point of the estate, from whence the water is conducted into immense reservoirs on the property. The gas is also laid on to the Chateau. The stabling, which has an independent entrance from the road, is very complete, and comprises excellent double coach house and three-stall stable, with rooms over; adjoining are poultry houses and other outbuildings. At the east entrance to the property is a very attractively designed four-roomed lodge, built in white Arles stone in keeping with the house. The total extent of the property now offered for sale is about 79,000 metres French, or nearly 20 statute acres, a considerable extent in the immediate vicinity of the house and southward being tastefully laid out in pleasure grounds, with lawns studded with different varieties of palms and other sub tropical plants, and fine plantations of choice shrubs and trees, rosaries, flower beds, &c. There are two good greenhouses and a number of frames. Part of the property to the north, sloping picturesquely up behind the house produces a considerable annual return, being planted with vines, olive trees, about 800 orange and lemon trees, &c., and still higher up are pines, heath, &c., growing in their natural state. For further particulars, plans and photographs of house, &c., apply to Messrs. JOHN TAYLOR & RIDDETT, 13 and 15 Rue de Frejus, Cannes, France; Messrs. DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.

TWO FIREMEN INJURED—LOSS ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

About three minutes before six o'clock yesterday evening, as the night watch of the Fifth precinct were about turning out to relieve the patrolmen who had been on duty during the afternoon, a column of smoke was seen issuing from a small shed at No. 18 Worth street, near the corner of Hudson. In an incredibly short time the fire was communicated to a five story building adjoining, occupied by Mr. D. A. Young as a packing box factory. A fierce wind was blowing toward West Broadway at the time, and before the arrival of the fire engines the flames had gained such headway that it seemed at that moment next to an impossibility to save any portion of the block. Nos. 12, 14 and 16 Worth street constitute an extensive brick shed-like structure, which was used for the storage of iron and steel rails by Mr. G. A. Whitney. On the easterly side of Young's box factory, and on the corner of West Broadway, stood a four story brick building, the first floor of which was occupied as a liquor saloon, the upper part being divided off into apartments and rented to several families.

That portion of the street where the fire originated is very narrow, and the firemen, notwithstanding their earnest efforts, had so many difficulties to contend against that it was only after a stubborn struggle with ladder and hose that they were enabled to gain the mastery of the element.

The fire attracted an immense crowd of people, and it was with difficulty that the police, under Captain Caffrey, cleared sufficient space for the firemen to work in.

Considerable difficulty was encountered in compelling the poor people to move out of the house on the corner of Worth street and West Broadway. All of their worldly possessions were there, and naturally enough they clung to the idea of saving their goods even in the face of great danger. Captain Caffrey finally found it necessary to send in five of his men, the squad being reinforced by Sergeant Joseph Haggerty and three of his patrolmen. Scarcely had the last policeman left the tenement house, driving the half-crazed inmates before them, when the wall fell over on it, completely demolishing the western corner of the building. A fireman named McGowan, a member of Company No. 6, narrowly escaped with his life. He sustained a concussion of the spine, the result of his having to jump from the roof of the burning building to the roof of a tenement house adjoining.

John Nolan, fireman, also a member of No. 6 company, had his hands and face badly burned while helping McGowan at the pipe. He was brought to the Park Hospital, where his burns were attended to by Dr. Smith.

The aggregate loss is estimated at $100,000. The buildings, Nos. 22 and 24 Worth street, where the fire broke out, are owned and occupied by Mr. D. A. Young, as a box manufactory. It is said that he is fully insured. Two weeks ago Mr. Young leased the premises to Messrs. Reed & Co., of Washington street, between Jay and Harrison streets, who were to commence a lard factory there. About 500 butter and lard firkins, belonging to Messrs. Reed, were in the building at the time of the fire, causing the intense heat. Mr. John Purcell, of No. 482 Broome street, owned the four story brick buildings No. 60 and 62 West Broadway, and his loss is estimated at $15,000, the falling wall of the burning building having thrown down at least one-half of No. 62. Mr. Purcell is insured for $9,500 in the Continental Insurance Company. James Lowery, tin roofer, No. 62 West Broadway, loses $200; insured for $600 in North River Insurance Company. Richard Kearney, liquor dealer, occupied the corner store and first floor. Loss $2,000; insured for $2,500 in the Peter Cooper Insurance Company. Michael King, No. 60 West Broadway, loses $100, not insured. Nunnery & Ford, plumbers, No. 60 West Broadway, lose $150; insured for $1,000 in the Hartford Insurance Company.

Nos. 56 and 58 West Broadway, owned by a Mr. Clare, were slightly damaged by water. The rear of No. 56, a four story tenement house, was very much injured by the falling wall, the loss being about $5,000. D. R. Kinney, D. S. Salmon, P. Houlahan, Timothy J. Kane, Mrs. McGonigle and others residing at No. 62, lose nearly all they possessed.

The rear buildings of Nos. 40 and 42 Thomas street were also seriously injured. Nos. 18 and 20 Worth street, occupied as an iron and hardware store, were slightly damaged.

OTHER FIRES.

At about five o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out on the first floor of the three story brick building No. 258 Mott street, occupied by Thomas Ryan as a distillery. The loss is estimated at $1,200, which is fully covered by insurance. James Garland, who was in the building at the time, while attempting to escape fell into the alleyway, breaking his right leg. He was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

Shortly before twelve o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the second floor of No. 474 Grand street, occupied as an oyster saloon and dwelling house by Aaron Van Name. The damage to stock is estimated at $2,000 and to the building at $200; not insured. The fire was caused by Mrs. Van Name accidentally throwing a lighted match among a lot of rubbish piled in a bedroom.

FIRE IN BAYONNE, N. J.

A magnificent dwelling house on Third street, Bayonne, was burned down on Tuesday night. There is no fire department in that city worth the name, and the flames had uncontrolled sway. The building was erected and formerly occupied by Mr. Griswold, but a few years ago it passed into the hands of Mr. Elstein, a wealthy New York merchant. The structure was the most attractive in the vicinity of Bergen Point. It was unoccupied, and the family were just preparing to return to it for the summer. The loss is about $16,000, on which there is an insurance of $10,000.

OILCLOTH FACTORY BURNED.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 21, 1875.

The extensive oilcloth factory belonging to the Eastern Manufacturing Company, of which E. G. Brown is President, took fire at half-past eight o'clock this morning and was entirely destroyed. The loss is $100,000; insured for $25,000 in Newark and New York companies.

A LADIES' SPELLING MATCH.

FORTY YOUNG LADIES OF THE NORMAL COLLEGE UNDER A SPELL.

The young ladies of the Normal College gave a morning entertainment yesterday and introduced a spelling match as the chief feature in the programme. It was quite a holiday for the young ladies, and several hundred guests were also present and took pleasure in witnessing the proficiency displayed by the students in spelling the very difficult words that were selected by the lady teacher who examined them.

The exercises commenced at half-past nine A. M., and the forty lady spellers were marshalled and divided into two sides of twenty each. Some 850 words had been written out by Mr. Fuller, the headmaster, but with very few exceptions they were spelled correctly, and as the opposing ranks were thinning very slowly it became a matter of question whether to continue the match until night or subject the contestants to the very severe alternative of selecting from Greek and Latin proper names and geographical names. As some of the elderly parties present were anxious for lunch, it was decided to commence the slaughter of the innocents at once. The first poser selected was "Mitylene," but it did not take even a moment's thought, and was rattled off as easy as if it had been "ice cream" or any other familiar word. "Hippocrates," "Polybius," "Phocion," "Cappadocia" and others were all spelt without an error, and finally the examiner, waxing desperate, gave "Merthyr Tydvil," a town in Wales. That proved a settler, and blonde and brunette went to grass together, as the victorious examiner gave out in rapid succession Æschylus, a Greek poet; Vercingetorix and Van Diemen's Land. It was really painful to see the cruel havoc that those few words made, as only a few stragglers stood up against them. The first prize in the match was finally awarded to Miss Mary E. Merington, a young lady who really defies Webster. Miss Susie Tower took second honors, and Miss Marguerite Merington, a sister of Miss Mary, was awarded third place. Mr. James W. Farr, Chairman of the Commission on Normal College, presided during the match, and Commissioners Fuller, Traud and Herring, of the Board of Education, were also present. After the spelling match was over Commissioner Herring delivered an eloquent address, in which he complimented the young ladies on the extraordinary proficiency they had displayed under the severe tests they were subjected to. It was estimated that only three per cent of the words given were missed.

Miss Roberts read a satirical composition, that was written with great ability, and Miss Dennison delivered a pleasing and interesting address. The exercises concluded with a species of burlesque charade, in which some ten or twelve young ladies took part. In the last scene a short poem was read, giving a description of the battle of Lexington. The parts in the charade were cleverly represented, and the visitors left shortly before one o'clock P. M., much pleased with the morning's entertainment.

THE WAR IN CUBA.

VALMASEDA'S HEADQUARTERS AT COLON—INSURGENT RETALIATION BY INCENDIARISM—MAXIMO GOMEZ IN FORCE—THE CAPTAIN GENERAL HESITATES TO GIVE BATTLE.

HAVANA, April 17, 1875.

No forward movement has been made by the Spanish forces since Valmaseda made Colon his headquarters. The volunteers from all parts of the island are concentrating at Colon, Las Cruces and Cienfuegos. Another regiment of volunteers—the engineers—leave Havana on Monday for the seat of war.

INSURGENT INCENDIARISM.

On the 14th the insurgents burned the sugar estates called the Colmena and Anton and destroyed all the buildings and machinery. These places are in the jurisdiction of Colon and are about twenty miles from Valmaseda's headquarters.

SPANISH MILITARY SYMPATHY WITH THE REBELS.

The engineers who were employed on these estates and who arrived here last night report that the insurgents numbered 700 and that 800 Spanish soldiers and volunteers refused to give them battle.

AFRAID OF THE PATRIOTS.

Maximo Gomez is on the Cafetales, at the gap of the Siguana Mountains, the country township of which is Yaguaramas, at the head of 5,000 cavalry and 1,000 infantry, and awaiting Sanguili's arrival with another strong force to give Valmaseda battle.

THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE ALFONSIST COMMANDER.

Valmaseda is still at Las Cruces, in a small hut, defended by stakes driven into the ground and surrounded by his bodyguard. He dare not advance upon Villa Clara, because Macagua and Colon and the Potrerillas are open to attack, and this explains his delay in Las Cruces and the assembling of his forces back of Colon, which are calculated to-day to exceed 25,000 men, including volunteers.

SKIRMISHING ALONG THE LINE.

Since he reached his present headquarters eighteen sugar estates have been burned, and he has been powerless to suppress the conflagrations.

In the small encounter (or what is called battle) of the Camarones some ten days ago, the Spanish column lost 218 killed.

The insurgent loss is not given.

To-day two regiments of volunteers (the Second artillery and Sixth infantry) started for the front. They number 1,000 men each.

THE VALUE OF ROYALIST PLEDGES.

The following news is extracted from a letter, received here from Santander, Spain:—"General Calixto Garcia, who was brought here while Concha was in command in Cuba, and was promised good treatment by him, is now confined in the Castle of San Antonio, in Santander, and subjected to the most ignominious treatment."

THE CUBANS IN NEW YORK—"LA SANTA TEA."

Great excitement reigned in Cuban circles in New York yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of news in the city, by steamer, from Havana. The Cubans were delighted at the reports of the wholesale burning of sugar plantations by the "Santa Tea" or Holy Torch of the patriots.

Information was received of the burning of San Rafael plantation, belonging to an American citizen residing in New York, worth $800,000, and that all its mills, &c., had been destroyed.

EMBARGOED ESTATES.

It was reported on best authority that agents of the Havana authorities in this city are offering to release the embargoed estates in Cuba on the payment of a small sum of money. Among the Cubans who have recently thus recovered their property is Mr. Bachelier Morales, of Havana.

CUBAN SUCCESSES IN THE FIELD.

Among the other items of news discussed by the Cubans yesterday was the fact that a battle had taken place between Valmaseda's forces, at Las Cruces, between Villa Clara and Cienfuegos, and the patriot forces commanded by Maximo Gomez. After this success Gomez proceeded to the west. He met the repelling forces at Palmyra, in Cienfuegos district, near the boundary of Colon. Here a sanguinary engagement took place, in which the Spaniards were routed, after a twelve hours' engagement.

TREASURE TROVE.

A QUANTITY OF GOLD COIN FOUND IN A CESSPOOL AT FACTORYVILLE, STATEN ISLAND.

As a HERALD reporter stepped ashore yesterday afternoon at Factoryville, Staten Island, he was saluted with—

"Hallo! are you come to pick up some more of our hidden treasure?"

The querist showed the way to the "church with the town clock in it," on the corner of Dongan street, opposite to which is situated near the mansion formerly occupied by Charles Windsor, once cashier of the Mercantile Bank, in Broadway, New York, and President of the Staten Island Street Railroad Company. In the summer of 1854 Windsor became a defaulter to the amount of $150,000 or $160,000 of the funds of the Mercantile Bank and fled to Europe, where it is thought that he still resides. His beautiful villa, which is yet known as the Windsor mansion, has a well kept lawn, surrounded by a small grove of spruce firs and ornamental trees. It is a large two story building. At its rear is a water closet. While this was being cleared out Tuesday last a considerable amount of

GOLD COIN

was discovered. It appears that the premises have belonged since Windsor's departure to his sister, formerly Mrs. Williamson, and now married to Mr. Albert Bodine. During the family's temporary absence their gardener, a man named John Regan, was instructed to have the water closet cleaned out, while other repairs were going on about the house. Isaias Harry, an oldish German, took the job of cleaning it for $18. To help him Harry had his son John and a youth named McLaughlin. On Monday afternoon, when the two young men were down to a depth of fifteen feet underground in the cesspool, and old Harry on the surface, they lighted upon a certain sum in gold coin, the precise amount of which will hardly ever be ascertained. Old Harry admits that the boys found money, but says he never saw any of it. The boys concealed their discovery from him, and it was only when they got on a spree on Tuesday that the finding became known. The old man states that on Monday evening they all knocked off work at the usual hour, and the place was left unwatched until Tuesday morning, so that those knowing of the discovery of money could have come there and have fished out whatever portion of the treasure might still have been

CONCEALED IN THE CESSPOOL.

John Regan, the gardener, says that, to his certain knowledge, the water closet was cleaned out about five years ago. He heard that some $6,000 were taken from the finders and lodged in the police station. He had seen but one piece of the money, in value $20.

The carpenters, painters and other workmen around the house looked completely mystified, and seemed to know nothing at all about the matter. A visit to the police station, not far off, found Captain Blake, Chief of the Staten Island police force, in consultation with his local officers concerning this mysterious treasure trove. The Captain was big with the importance of the case, and would divulge none of the facts in his possession, alleging as a reason that the case was not "sufficiently worked up to give to the public." He had heard rumors that from $500 to $16,000 had been found. The money was loose in the dirt, and was picked out at different times. The boys had not been under arrest. McLaughlin's father brought to Captain Blake the amount of coin now on deposit with the latter. The Captain into saying how much the sum is, but to a question as to the denomination of the pieces replied that "they are big, sir, big." As a smart looking turnout was at the door it was asked if it required a buggy and pair to move the bullion. Captain Blake said yes, "it had come in that buggy." He also informed the reporter that the Windsor Mansion had been occupied, after the flight of its owner, by a New York merchant named Green. This tenant left the place three or four years ago, and never was known to have had either financial or domestic troubles. The officer further said that there was nothing apparent thus far that could connect the name of Windsor with the money found. No claimant has as yet turned up to ask for the money, nor has any clew been found by which the rightful owner can be discovered. A long tramp to Staten Island police headquarters at Stapleton elicited no further information as to the affair. Captain Blake believes that this afternoon he will probably be prepared to give publicity to the data now in his possession.

THE RAILWAY WAR.

PRESIDENT GARRETT REPORTED TO BE VICTORIOUS OVER TOM SCOTT.

It was reported yesterday that President Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, had overcome the impediments which Tom Scott had thrown in his way, and had procured means of communicating with New York city independent of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad. This means was said to be the New Jersey Southern Railway, whose northern terminus is at Sandy Hook, and whose southern terminus is at Camden, N. J., opposite Philadelphia. It is by no means certain that yesterday's report is true; but if it is true the management of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway will have procured means of transit for passengers and freight from New York to the West in despite of the opposition of Tom Scott.

THE COURTS.

In the great railroad bond forgery case, being tried before Judge Sedgwick, of the Superior Court, all the testimony on both sides was submitted yesterday. Counsel will sum up to-day, and every effort will be made to reach a verdict this week, a verdict that, from the nature of the case, will be looked forward to with great interest.

The jury of the United States Circuit Court, in the case of Libermann against the Germania Life Insurance Company, to recover the amount of a $12,500 policy on the life of one Rosenthal, who insured his life to cover a debt due the plaintiff, and subsequently committed suicide in San Francisco, failed to agree on the point of insanity and were discharged. The jury, it is understood, stood five for plaintiff and seven for the company.

Thomas Radcliffe, who was arrested some time ago for subornation of perjury in inducing certain persons to personate property owners in going "straw" bail, was committed yesterday by Commissioner Shields to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Frederick Evers, who formerly kept a sailors' boarding house and who shot James Curran, the keeper of a rival establishment, was, as will be remembered, convicted of felonious assault, with intent to kill, before Recorder Hackett in the Court of General Sessions, and sentenced to State Prison for three years. He now applies for bail on a writ of error on appeal. The case will be taken up in a day or two by Judge Barrett.

William W. Tillotson, treasurer of Booth's Theatre, gave bail in the sum of $500 yesterday, before United States Commissioner Davenport, to await an examination on the charge of violating the Civil Rights bill by refusing a parquet ticket to William Davis, a colored man.

Judge Blatchford, of the United States Circuit Court, yesterday rendered his decision in the habeas corpus proceedings on the attachment issued out of the Circuit Court of the District of Columbia against Charles A. Dana, who failed to appear in answer to a subpœna on March 19. The decision discharges Mr. Dana, the petitioner, from the custody of the Marshal of this District.

The trial of Henry L. Farris against William G. Fargo, of Wells, Fargo & Co., and one of much interest to the holders of stock in joint stock companies, was tried yesterday in the Supreme Court, before Judge Lawrence. The jury after a short deliberation returned with a verdict in favor of the defendant.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

BOSTON VS. NEW HAVEN.

Notwithstanding the extreme cold weather the Boston and New Haven clubs played yesterday at New Haven in the presence of a large number of spectators. The Bostons walked right away with their weaker adversaries, winning the game by the following score:—

Clubs.	1st.	2d.	3d.	4th.	5th.	6th.	7th.	8th.	9th.
Boston	0	0	3	1	3	0	1	1	5	—14
New Haven	2	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	— 3

Umpire—Mr. Avery.

PHILADELPHIA VS. CENTENNIAL.

The Philadelphia and Centennial clubs were to have played their first game last Monday, but the inclement weather prevented. Yesterday, however, they met at the Quaker City, and the result was a sharp, well-contested game, much to the surprise of the base ball community, who imagined the Philadelphias would well-nigh annihilate the other boys.

The result was as follows:—

Clubs.	1st.	2d.	3d.	4th.	5th.	6th.	7th.	8th.	9th.
Philadelphia	1	0	0	1	0	3	1	1	0	—7
Centennial	0	1	0	1	0	0	1	1	0	—4

Umpire—Mr. Clapp, of the Athletic Club.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

In the Boston-New Haven game last Monday, Geer, of the New Havens, made three base hits, his club getting but five total.

To-day the Athletics play the Philadelphias at Philadelphia. Pools on the game will be sold at No. 161 Bowery, and at Johnson's, corner of Broadway and Twenty-eighth street, where telegraphic reports of each inning will be received and posted in sight of all.

ARRIVALS.

REPORTED BY THE HERALD STEAM YACHTS AND HERALD WHITESTONE TELEGRAPH LINE.

Steamer W A Scholten (Dutch), Bus, Rotterdam April 3, via Plymouth, with mdse and 63 passengers to Funch, Edye & Co. Left Plymouth April 9, 2 PM; had a favorable trip to lat 44 07, lon 49 12 on 15th April, when we met, at 7:20 PM, with some floating ice, which increased so suddenly that at 9:30 we were surrounded by heavy fields, with bergs west as far as the eye could reach, with an opening at SW and slowly steered that direction as much as the openings in the ice would allow us. At E, however, the ice increased, some cakes being 20 feet thick, with a surface of 5,000 square feet; we were surrounded by icebergs, some of them estimated at 80 feet high and 600 feet long; we dared scarcely advance, and it was only next morning at daylight that we ventured to go on and steer SSW, when we saw the only opening in the ice and escaped the greater part of the ice fields. We found propeller damaged, all four blades having a piece off; the bow was stove in and fore compartment filled with water; finding no water in the forehold, after continual soundings, we went on, but only slowly on account of a heavy fog, which cleared up at 1 PM April 16; at 3 PM we saw the last berg; at 4 PM, in lat 42 30, lon 50 36, exchanged signals with a Cunard steamer bound east, and warned her of the ice.
